IN THE BEE TO-DAY

WEATHER.

The official local forecast for to-day and to-morrow is rain, colder.

Observer Hagen, United States weather bureau says: "An area of hih barometer has replaced the "low" or storm center that was in the northwest yesterday. It is accompanied by a cold wave, but its arrival here will be delayed by a storm which developed last night in Kansas and which will force its way between us and the cold wave. However a temperature a little below freezing is looked for to-morrow, which will change our rain into soft snow.

"The highest temperature on the government weather map to-day is 56 degrees at Galveston. The lowest is 10 degrees below zero at Battleford in northwest Canada. The zero line extends through northern Montana. The highest temperature here yesterday was 44 degrees. The lowest this morning was 34 degrees. Total rain fall for this storm 1-2 in."

WAS KNOCKED OUT

A Great Surprise at the Waterford Election.

Redmond, the Parnellite, Was Easily Elected

Over Michael Davitt by Five Hundred Votes.

The Victory a Blow to the McCarthyites.

The Followers of the Dead Leader Will Rally in the House of Commons and Keep Alive the Bitter Strife, All to Ireland's Loss.

Dublin, Dec. 24.—The result of the election which took place yesterday at Waterford for a member of parliament to succeed the late Richard Power was made known this morning. To the surprise of the political prophets Mr. John E. Redmond, the Parnellite candidate, easily defeated the McCarthyite representative, Mr. Michael Davitt. The polling was as follows: Mr. John E. Redmond (Parnellite) 1,725, Mr. Michael Davitt (McCarthyite) 1,229. Majority for Mr. Redmond, 496.

The victory was a heavy blow to the McCarthyites, who were confident of victory, and will serve to give a new lease of life to the Parnellite party. It is now believed to be certain that the followers of the late Parnell, as represented under the leadership of Mr. Redmond, will secure a number of other seats and be able to maintain themselves as a distinct party for some time to come.

As announced yesterday, the Parnellites had been driven into their last entrenchment, into the last ditch, but they rallied nobly, fought with the most grim determination, and have handsomely routed the enemy.

The number of registered electors at the last election when the late Mr. Richard Power (a home ruler) was returned unopposed, was 3,946, and 2,954 votes were cast yesterday, for the two candidates. It will thus be seen that about 1,000 people abstained for one reason and another from voting.

The Parnellites are jubilant, of course, and say that their victory arises from the fact that the priests were unable to coerce the Waterford electors as they had previously coerced the Cork and other voters who have given majorities against Parnellites within the past few months.

So late as yesterday evening the general public opinion in political circles was that Mr. Davitt had won, and before the polls were opened it was predicted on all sides that he would win by about 500 majority.

The result shows how badly the political prophets can be mistaken and proves there is still considerable vitality in the party fighting beneath the banner of the late Parnell.

Naturally the Parnellites claim their victory at Waterford is a vindication of the principles they uphold. In any case it is difficult to see how the result of the Waterford election can tend to bring harmony to the councils of the Irish parliamentary party.

The Parnellites have it in their power to demand terms and they will not be backward in doing so.

It is proved that the most surprised man in Great Britain and Ireland to-day is Michael Davitt. He had no more idea of being defeated than he did of flying. He counted firmly on the full support of the labor vote in addition to the regular vote of the party, but contrary to these sanguine expectations the labor vote was either cast against him or else maintained a neutral attitude and remained at home.

It will be impossible until the effects of this unexpected victory have been weighed by all parties to predict or even guess at its eventual outcome so far as the prospects of Irish legislation are concerned. The minds of the leaders of both Irish factions are at present too much excited to admit of anything like reconciliation.

Mr. Dillon, it will be remembered, announced at Waterford on Thursday last that if Waterford returned the Parnellite candidate, he, Mr. Dillon, would feel bound to tell his countrymen that there was no longer any hope in constitutional legislation, and that he himself should retire to private life.

People are now asking themselves if Mr. Dillon will keep his word, and rumor has it that should he do so, other prominent Irish members of parliament may follow his example.

This, it is added, might pave the way towards reconciliation between the contending factions, and gives birth to the hope that the Irish party will be reunited in the near future. This hope, however, is at present only showing a faint glimmer on the political horizon.

Mr. John E. Redmond, the successful candidate in the Waterford election, when the result was made known, was hoisted upon the shoulders of his friends and was borne about in triumph, amid rvars of enthusiastic cheering. Finally Mr. Redmond was allowed to make a speech during the course of which he said he was certain that the result of the election would be received with pleasure by the Irish everywhere.

Continuing, Mr. Redmond said that he regretted that the dead chief, whose heart was broken with the ingratitude and treachery shown toward him, had not lived to see this day. (Loud cheers).

Mr. Redmond also said: "We must never forget this magnificent blow struck in the cause of Irish independence."

ON A SERIOUS CHARGE.

A Norwalk Young Man in a Peck of Trouble.

Norwalk, O., Dec. 24.—(Special)—Hiram Brown has just been arrested charged with ruining Nellie J. Wanser under promise of marriage.

The warrant was issued some time ago, but Brown left the country, returning only a few days ago.

Miss Wonser is the girl who attempted suicide a month or two ago.

Brown was arraigned before Justice Marten and his hearing continued until next Tuesday.

He was liberated on $1,000 bail furnished by his father, H. F. Brown, and Joseph Gibbs.

MORE FIGHTING REPORTED.

Brazilians Do Not Hold Their Peace Long.

General Campo, with a Force of Two Hundred and Fifty Men, Has Attacked Santa Victoria.

FALSE ALARM.

Sullivan and Slavin Have Not Signed to Fight.

San Francisco, Dec. 24.—Jack Barnett, manager of John L. Sullivan, said yesterday that the telegram from New York stating that Arthur T. Lumley, representing Sullivan, met Frank Slavin and arranged to sign articles for a fight to a finish in 15 weeks between Sullivan and Slavin cannot possibly be true.

Sullivan's engagement to play with Duncan B. Harrison will not expire until June 5, 1892, and he cannot even prepare for a fight until after the expiration of the engagement.

BURGLARS IN KENTUCKY.

Cattlettsburg, Ky., Dec. 24.—Burglars entered the postoffice here by forcing the rear door, and blowing open the safe, securing nearly $600 in stamps and currency, besides a number of registered letters. The safe handles were broken off and powder placed in the cavity, enough to force the door wide open. No clew was left, but it is supposed to have been the work of persons familiar with the place.

SENATOR PLUMB'S WEALTH.

Emporia, Ks., Dec. 24.—Since the death of Senator Plumb there has been a great deal of speculation as to the dimensions of his private estate. Mr. Calvin Hood, a business associate of Mr. Plumb and one of the executors of his will, states that the estate, at a very conservative estimate, is valued at $1,000,000.

BARREL WORKS STRIKE.

Tiffin, O., Dec. 24.—All the employes of the Tiffin barrel works are out on a strike for an increase in wages to the union schedule.

T. W. Wilcoxson, the proprietor, says he cannot stand the advance demanded, and will probably close the factory until non-union men can be secured.

FOUND TO BE INSANE.

Edward M. Field Declared a Lunatic.

A Jury of Twenty-Four Men so Decide.

A Decision that Saves the Napoleon of Bad Finances From a Long Term of Years in the New York Prison.

White Plains, N. Y., Dec. 24.—The inquiry into the sanity of Edward M. Field began yesterday before Judge Robertson, and a crowded court room. A jury was secured after a slight delay, and then counsel for Mr. Field read the affidavits of several physicians, stating that it would be extremely dangerous to remove Field from Ludlow street jail to White Plains. Judge Robertson thereupon excused Field from being present. The taking of testimony was then commenced.

D. Ogden Bradley, president of the Tarrytown National bank, testified that Edward M. Field had done business with his bank for years. During the past two years witness had noticed Field's peculiar actions and had refused to loan him any more money unless his father, Cyrus W. Field, would go his security.

Dr. Lindley, the brother-in-law of Edward M. Field, testified that young Mr. Field was undoubtedly insane.

Mrs. Edward M. Field, wife of the man whose sanity is in question, testified that her husband had been acting strangely for two years. Formerly he was very affectionate, but during the past year he had become morose and ill-natured. Her husband frequently spoke to her during the past summer of some grand financial scheme and tried to tell her of it, but it would suddenly vanish from his mind. He began to talk incoherently and stared vacantly at friends whom he chanced to meet. He had always considered his sense of honor paramount to all else. He had recently spoken to her of financial ventures he had made, and when reproached by her would deny that he had ever made them. In her opinion there was no doubt as to her husband's insanity.

Drs. Allen, Fitch and Frank H. Ingram, experts on insanity, testified that they had examined Edward M. Field several times and declared most positively that he was insane.

The case was then submitted and the jury retired. After being out 10 minutes they returned with a verdict stating that Edward M. Field was a lunatic and not responsible for his actions.

The verdict was unanimous. The jury consisted of 24 men, who listened with marked attention to the evidence presented, and returned their verdict without hearing argument. It is proper to say that while only a part of the evidence available was presented, the case was regarded by all concerned as conclusive.

The jury also found Mr. Field's personal property to be worth $20,000.

Fields' Condition.

New York, Dec. 24.—There was no change in Edward M. Fields' behavior this morning from what it has been since he was first incarcerated in Ludlow street jail. He still refuses to partake of food and spends his time in looking over papers.

Dr. Crosby, the jail physician, says he does not propose to take any action toward compelling Field to partake of food. He says he will merely let him alone until he becomes hungry. There were no callers on the prisoner this morning.

SECRETARY SOPER'S CASE.

He Agrees to Make Good Any Deficiency.

He Thinks the Sum Will Not be Over Twenty-Five Dollars—Small Matter to Kick About.

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 24.—Hon. Robert B. Black, of Manistee, was tendered and accepted the office of secretary of state, made vacant by the resignation of Mr. Soper. To-day Mr. Soper deposited with the state treasurer the sum of $25, accompanied with a letter saying in substance that he had discovered by memorandum an order in his possession that he held certain moneys belonging to the state, and that he had applied to the office of secretary of state for information as to the exact amount, but it was refused; that his success had been greater in an application to the investigating committee, but he was of opinion that the amount did not exceed that deposited, and that he stood ready to pay into the treasury whatever sum might be found due from him. It is believed this will relieve him of liability to criminal prosecution, provided the report of the investigating committee should show him in default.

UNKNOWN ASSASSIN.

Belleville, N. J., Dec. 24.—W. H. Dunham, the proprietor of the road house on Washington avenue, was murdered at midnight last night by an unknown person.

The assassin from the outside fired through the window of the room in which Dunham was sitting and killed him instantly. Dunham was 35 years old. The assassin escaped.

CHEROKEE OFFICERS.

Tahlequah, I. T., Dec. 24.—The Cherokee nation has chosen C. J. Harris, first chief, and Stephen Tehee, second chief. Harris succeeds Chief Mayes, who died a week ago. He has served in the senate and been a delegate to Washington. But recently he was elected treasurer of the Cherokee nation.

BLUFF AND BLUSTER.

The Big Mayor and Little Judge Blow Their Bazoos.

Emmick Emits Brimstone and Sala Spits Fire.

Unseemly Scene of Impotent Rage in the Office of the Police Clerk—The Two Terrors on Their Ears.

"There is not in nature
A thing that makes a man
So beastly, so deformed,
As doth intemperate rage."

The Bee's exposure of the inside workings of the attack on Chief O'Dwyer has evidently struck home, if one may judge from the squirming and howling of pompous Mayor Emmick and his coworker, the little Police Judge Sala. Ever since the true inwardness of their game was shown up they have been exceedingly busy with puerile denials and explanations, which, however, failed to explain away any material points. Their principal defense is a wholesale counter attack on the reporters who were instrumental in exposing them, and instead of furnishing proof of what they have alleged the little Judge and the big Mayor have been spending their breath in vile abuse.

This morning Mayor Emmick went down to police court to "look into this thing," as he said, with blood in his eye. He also invited one of the reporters to stop and see the fun.

He was bottled up for a row, as was afterwards developed. His presence in the court room fired up the little judge, and he glowered down on the reporters from his high chair as though he would devour them.

As soon as court adjourned they broke loose with all the fury of their impotent rage, and for a half hour the atmosphere in the vicinity of the court room and the clerk's office was a decided blue, while the vile language emanating from the mayor and the judge gave it a decided smell of sulphur.

They called together a conclave of the reporters present with Clerk Fogarty and Assistant Sam Tanner, and then the circus begun. The judge and mayor ranted and capered, called everybody liars, and as usual made themselves very disgusting and ridiculous, without accomplishing anything.

Sam Tanner denied an interview which was in the Commercial this morning, and then withdrew from the muss. Clerk Fogarty kept quiet and watched the row, and thus the big and little man were left alone to do their great act of extinguishing the press. How well they succeeded the public may judge.

The Wrathy Mayor.

Judge Sala opened the docket and displayed the entry he had made after the Streicher case was over, and claimed that he had made the verbal order to send the man to the probate office in court, but forgot to place it on the docket until afterwards, when he did so.

He claimed that he had a perfect right to do this. He then launched out with a tirade of abuse of reporters and the press in general, and the Bee and Commercial in particular. He made all sorts of threats in his rage, and also used some very bad language, notwithstanding the fact that he lectures poor culprits who come before him for doing the same thing.

All this time the mayor was fuming and letting go of strong adjectives at intervals until he finally recognized a Bee reporter standing beside him, and then the wrath of both was turned toward the Bee.

Both denied that they were scheming against the chief, and Emmick said that the story printed in the Bee and Commercial was a —— ——lie."

They even went so far as to say that the first steps in the matter were taken by Judge Millard and Dr. Kitchen, when the fact is that the papers show for themselves that Judge Sala obtained a transcript of the court record in the cases and wrote a note to the mayor on the subject the day before the letters were written by Judge Millard and Dr. Kitchen.

Sala's rage seemed to be too great for utterance and he could only ejaculate once in a while, and finally sank into a chair and began pounding his umbrella on the floor.

The mayor, however, had a large stock of vile language too filthy to print at his command, and he used it with a loud voice.

He also seemed aggrieved at other things which the Bee has said of his administration. Referring to an item regarding his course on the street railway ordinance, he shook his finger under the Bee reporter's nose and said: "You tell the man who wrote it that he is a G—d d—n lying —— ——"

Rather Tall, but Still Sala.

"I have stood this long enough," continued he, "and it has got to stop or some of these reporters will get hurt."

Finally, after they had tired themselves out with this kind of talk, much of which could not be printed, and including many threats, Little Sala said, "Come on, let's go and look up the Commercial. This business must stop, and I propose to make them sweat for it. I'm willing to spend a month's salary for a good lawyer to prosecute them."

"All right, come on, we might as well do it now as any time," said Emmick, and out they marched.

At the hour of going to press, the reporters were still on earth.

CLEARED OF SUSPICION.

One Charge Against Field Which Was Not True.

New York, Dec. 24.—The Sun this morning in a three-column article, says that after making a thorough investigation into the mysterious drowning of Marie Arigaset at Croton Landing last June, certain facts have been discovered which effectually clear E. M. Field of having any connection at all with the paternity of the girl's child or of her subsequent death as published yesterday.

It is true that he paid the funeral expenses of the girl but that was merely a voluntary kindness, she having been for some time employed in his household.

BISHOP SHARP DEAD.

Salt Lake, Utah, Dec. 24.—Bishop John Sharp died here yesterday aged 71. He was a director of the Union Pacific railway, second vice-president of the Oregon Short Line and Utah Northern, president of the Deseret National bank and a member of many big institutions. He came to Utah in 1851 and was a leading mormon and partner of Brigham Young in the construction of a portion of the Union Pacific road in Weber canon.

HEAVY FAILURE.

San Francisco, Dec. 24.—Lowenthal, Livingstone & Co. have failed with liabilities of about $220,000, which is nearly all due to English firms. A fall in the price of shipping and in the value of salmon is said to have caused the failure.

ROCA UNDER SUBMISSION.

London, Dec. 24.—A dispatch from Buenos Ayres says that Gen. Roca has reiterated his decision not to be a candidate for the presidency of the Argentine Republic in the coming presidential campaign.

A BREAK IN HAMILTON.

Three of Foraker's Followers Desert Him.

Dick, Craft and Clingman Are for Sherman.

The Announcement Has Caused Consternation in the Ranks of the Skyrocket Politician's Forces.

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 24.—There is hurrying to and fro in the Foraker camp and a gathering together of hustlers. There are angry discussions and hasty consultations and all because it has been ascertained that three of the Hamilton county delegation, which has been heretofore solid for the pyrotechnical ex-governor, have moved over into the other camp.

The news was at first so startling that it was not credited, but later the confirmation came, and with it the excitement. Representatives Dick, Craft and Clingman are the bolters, and the former has prepared for publication an article explaining his position.

He had intended giving it publicity today, but has deferred the matter some days, but stoutly announces that he is no longer tied to Foraker.

Messrs. Craft and Clingman decline to talk, but say that when the time comes to vote they will give a conscientious explanation that will satisfy their constituents.

The defection of Mr. Craft is the most surprising of all, as he was regarded as one of Forakers most trusted lieutenants. It is said that two other members of the delegation are really at heart for Sherman, and some lively times are looked for. The delegation is in a turmoil, and those in a position to know say the meetings of the delegation are a succession of quarrels.

The Sherman forces now present a united front on the speakership question. Hon. D. D. Taylor, of Guernsey, and S. M. Taylor, of Champaign, who have been in the race for the speakership, have announced that for the best interests of all concerned they have decided to withdraw.

This action leaves the field clear for Mr. Laylin, of Huron, so far as the Sherman following is concerned, and he is now only matched against Mr. McGrew, of Clarke, who is the Foraker candidate.

The best of feeling exists among the Sherman men over the turn affairs have taken in regard to the contest for the speakership. It has all along been understood that two of the three Sherman candidates would withdraw at the proper time in order that there may be no division of the strength in the final of the contest. It is believed here that this renders the election of Laylin certain, and it will give the control of the house to the supporters of Senator Sherman.

SOME TIN PLATE TRUTHS

Consumers' Association Makes a Statement.

How the Members Have Been Bled.

From Ten to Fifteen Million Dollars a Year Added on to What the People Must Pay for Their Canned Fruit.

New York, Dec. 24.—The Tin-Plate Consumers' association gave out the following to-day:

"Our position is not one of antagonism to the establishment of the tin-plate industry in America.

"Representing among our members both political parties, we claim for ourselves as large a share of patriotism and desire for the material and industrial prosperity of our country as those who, from ignorance or for political ends, are claiming that the increased McKinley duty on tin plates has resulted in the establishment of a new industry, which has been accomplished without harm to the various industries in which we are individually engaged.

"Our position enables us to be the best judges on this subject, as the article, which is a raw material to us, is the subject of the experiment that is being made.

"Since the McKinley bill was passed we have had to pay over $10,000,000 more for the tin plate we used in our factories and workshops, and the present duty will add every year over $15,000,000 to the loss of our raw material.

"It is a matter of business and not of politics that up to the present moment not one sheet of coke tin, which constitutes over half of our entire requirements, has yet been put upon the market by the American manufacturers, and that the present output of all kinds does not constitute 1 per cent of the entire consumption of tin plate in America."

FACTS ABOUT GAS.

Woful Mismanagement of Natural Gas Board.

The Plant is on the Verge of Actual Ruin.

A Scheme the Result of Monday's Secret Meeting.

Heston Recommends that the Only Two Men Who Know Anything of the Plant be Discharged —The Parsons-Jones-Heston Combine.

The outrageous Parsons-Jones combine of six months ago has brought the city's natural gas plant to the verge of actual ruin. When Parsons entered into the combine with Jones to remove Dr. Tobey and place Mr. Heston in the position of general manager he took the first step towards bringing the plant to its present bad condition.

It will be remembered that Messrs. Greene and Brown protested most emphatically against the outrage, but in vain.

Since that time Greene and Brown have been in a minority, and have in fact little to say. What they said didn't go, and it is a fact that Dr. Jones overrode the actual order of the board.

Dr. Jones has run and is running the board, and this is the result—practical ruin.

For the first time in the history of the board the minutes of the star chamber session of Monday afternoon were adopted at the open meeting Monday night without reading.

The results and objects of the meeting are now known. Neither Brown nor Greene were apprised of the object of the secret meeting, and Mr. Brown, after emphatically protesting against the proceedings, got up and left in disgust.

Manager Heston presented a recommendation that Superintendent O'Herron, of the city plant, and Superintendent Gettleman, of the field plant, be discharged. The recommendation was evidently inspired, for Dr. Jones supported it heartily. Gettleman has been superintendent in the field since the first well was drilled, and he is the only man who knows anything about the field plant. He was discharged, but the recommendation to discharge O'Herron was not adopted, although it is merely a matter of a little time when he shall go.

O'Herron mortally offended Dr. Jones when he reported, as in duty bound, that he (Jones) had ordered the gas turned on under the boilers of the German Express, although the board had previously ordered it turned off.

Dr. Jones' power may be seen from the fact that the Express continued to get gas even after the report was presented.

The evidences of criminal carelessness or gross ignorance in the management of the plant are on all sides.

It will hardly be believed but it is an actual fact that the Bee can prove, that the books of the board do not show the names or a number of consumers now using city gas. There are people to-day, perhaps hundreds, using city gas that have never paid a cent for it, and whom the board does not know are using it. In other words, consumers have not only been connected with the line free of cost, but are actually getting gas free.

The following evidence of idiocy will hardly be credited, but it is an absolute fact:

Some time ago the board ordered that such fittings as could not be used by the city and then on hand should be sold to the contractors at cost. What did Manager Heston do when this order was fulfilled? He ordered more fitting and kept ordering. And what for? To sell these same fittings to the contractors at actual cost at the warehouses, and the city paid for freight, cartage, storage, etc. Such idiocy is beyond the wildest flight of imagination.

The Sherman forces now present a united front on the speakership question. Hon. D. D. Taylor, of Guernsey, and S. M. Taylor, of Champaign, who have been in the race for the speakership, have announced that for the best interests of all concerned they have decided to withdraw.

The Jones-Heston combine worked beautifully.

And the worst has yet to come. The Bee referred to it some time ago, but part of the trustees don't seem to realize it yet.

A petition was presented from certain consumers of the First ward who were on so-called "dead ends" that they be allowed to use what little gas was to be secured direct from the pipe without using mixers. The petition was granted temporarily. The first thing that was known was that a wholesale destruction of mixers were going on throughout the city. Hundreds commenced boring out their mixers, and it is said that over $10,000 worth of mixers have thus been destroyed. On some lines every consumer is using a mixer thus bored.

The Bee is creditably informed that Manager Heston actually hired men to go around and bore out mixers. Could idiocy go much further?

"Something is going to drop, and that too, within a day or two. Perhaps before the readers of this eat their Christmas dinner, an explosion will be heard from the gas board.

Another fact illustrating the chronic idiocy of the management. At the secret meeting Monday, Manager Heston presented a list of employes whom he recommended should be discharged.

Without consulting the superintendent, he, with the consent of certain members of the board, discharged the most competent and retained the most useless.

Since Dr. Jones got the reins of power men discharged for drunkenness and incompetency, have been reinstated by orders of Dr. Jones. Mr. O'Herron has a score of such orders.

Two weeks ago when the piping stopped and the need of an engineer not much of a necessity, Dr. Jones got a friend appointed as an assistant or draughtsman to Engineer Wright. The position was a sinecure, for there was no more need for the man than there was for Manager Heston to have four feet.

Upon the consummation of the "unholy alliance" whereby Tobey was ousted the Bee predicted the result, and the prediction has come true.

Notwithstanding a collection of $14,000 from gas last month, the board has not a cent wherewith to bless itself.

Gross carelessness, stupidity, idiocy and perhaps worse, has marked every step since the combine was formed.

President Parsons will be a candidate for re-election next spring, but before that time he must make his annual report—he may not—but if he does and the full facts are given, a light so hot will be thrown upon the situation that it will curl the hair of the tax-payers of Toledo.

WHEN YOU HAVE NO GUN,

What Strange Things You Do Run Across.

Sketches From the Congressional Directory

Showing How the Patriots, as Told by Themselves, Discard the Shovel and the Hoe to Save the Country.

Washington, Dec 24.—(Special)—The congressional directory is always funny but this issue seems to abound in things that partake of the ludicrous, and tell, in a few words, the class of men who aspire to political preferment and who are successful. These biographical sketches are written by the members and were it not for the work of the editor, would be even more humorous.

The Bee correspondent gave a brif review of this issue of the directory some days ago, but finds that he omitted many interesting points.

For example, Representative J. J. Little, who was elected to the place left vacant by the resignation of Roswell P. Flower, is evidently proud of his wife's ancestry, for he makes it a special boast in the biography which he has furnished to Mr. Michael's book.

According to this book he "was married in 1866 to Josephine, youngest daughter of John Robinson, direct descendant of John Robinson, who came over in the Mayflower." Mr. Little further says that he is a "prominent Free Mason" and an "active" member of the World's fair committee in New York. Mr. Little's frankness about himself is not peculiar.

Herman W. Snow, of Shelton, Ill., informs the public that he "educated himself entirely," and a little further on announces that he "is a good Latin, Greek and French scholar." Just how this will have a bearing on his career in the house of representatives does not appear. Neither Latin, Greek nor French would materially assist an argument in favor of the Hennepin canal.

Seth W. Cobb, of St. Louis, who was commonly believed to have bought off a rival candidate for the democratic nomination in his district, says proudly that he "has never held or sought a political office."

Benjamin F. Grady, of North Carolina, says he "has been a strict construction democrat all his life, but not an office-seeker."

Albert C. Hopkins, of Lock Haven, Penn., joins the ranks of the patriots who did not seek the office with the announcement that he "has never been an applicant for office nor held one until elected to the Fifty-second congress."

John Benjamin Long, of Palestine, Tex., furnishes a restraining contrast for these gentlemen and an excellent illustration of the way a congressional campaign is conducted in Texas. He says of himself that he "made the canvass and secured the nomination for the Fifty-second congress over some of the most prominent and best men of the state." The barrenness of republicanism in the Lone Star state is epitomized in the few words that follow: Mr. Long "had no expressed opposition after nomination."

The educational qualification has great value in the eyes of some and is scorned by others. William Jennings Bryan, of Lincoln, Neb., for example, makes a special note of the fact that he "completed a classical course and was graduated with the highest honors in 1881," while B. H. Clover, of Cambridge, Kan., one of the untanned representatives of the Farmers' alliance, is evidently proud of the fact that he received his education in the common schools of his native state and the school of experience.

That is a qualification for public service which a great many of the new members make conspicuous in their biographies. James Sedgwick Gorman, of Michigan, is afraid perhaps that the ignorant will confuse him with farmers like ex-Senator Evarts, who pay out large sums of money annually for the support of "model farms," for he has said himself that after practising law for a number of years, "owing to failing health of his father he went back on the farm, where he has since been engaged as a practical every-day farmer."

John Grant Otis, of Topeka, Kan., one of the alliance members, has committed himself on the money question, in his autobiography. He says of himself that "since the war closed (he) has been a most uncompromising greenbacker and advocate of a new American monetary system in the interest of the industrial classes."

Mr. Otis does not neglect the trade interests in making up the story of his public life, for in the next sentence he announces that he "for over 20 years has been engaged in the dairy business near Topeka."

Charles Eugene Belknap, of Grand Rapids, Mich., also hangs out a banner with the announcement that he is "engaged in the manufacture of wagons and sleighs."

Halbert Stevens Greenleaf, of Rochester, N. Y., "is a manufacturer of locks—time, combination and key locks," but he does not neglect to say that he is "also engaged in farming and stock-raising."

Mr. Little, of New York, tells the patrons of the directory that he is still in business at the old stand by stating the fact that he " in 1867 established a printing business, which still continues under the name of J. J. Little & Co.

Sydenham B. Alexander, of North Carolina, elevates agriculture to the level of the law and medicine. He says that he "is by profession a farmer."

Gen. Curtis, of New York, gives the public the benefit of an extended war record, and advises the new members that he lost his eye at the battle of Fort Fisher. John Dewitt Warner, of New York city, is proud enough of the fact that he is "Governor of the Delta Kappa Epsilon, Shakespearean and Reform Clubs" to make it a part of his autobiography.

Mr. Belknap, of Michigan, "served 11 years in the fire department of Grand Rapids, as captain of a company, assistant chief and chief. Robert E. Doan, of Wilmington, O., "held an important secret position under Abraham Lincoln connected with the postoffice department during the war." Irvine Dungan, of Jackson, O., claims distinction on the ground that he "was the author of the first law in Ohio against the truck system."

John Davis, a representative of the people's party from Kansas, says of himself that he "through correspondence in the journal of the Knights of Labor and other mediums, became widely known as an able and fearless writer on economic subjects." He is undoubtedly "an able and fearless writer" on the subject of John Davis.

Frederick Edward White, of Webster, Ia., is rather proud of the fact that before the war broke out he worked as a farm hand in the neighborhood of his father's farm.

The greater number of those who represent western states are native of eastern states. The eastern states are represented in chief by natives. The Maine delegation is composed of natives of that state.

The only exception in the Massachusetts delegation is Elijah Morse, who, in the directory of last year, claims in his autobiography that he was a "distant relative of the Adams family of Quincy and represents the same district once represented by John Quincy Adams."

The South Carolina delegation is composed of seven South Carolinians. Of the 34 representatives of New York in the house 23 are native New Yorkers.

Mr. Crisp, of Georgia, was born in Sheffield, Eng., while his parents were on a visit there. He came to America before he was a year old. Mr. Mills' nativity is not given in the directory, as he evidently neglected to furnish data to the publisher. J. J. Little, of New York, native of Bristol, Eng., and was over at the age of 5.

J. Jolley, of South Dakota, was born in Montreal, where he remained until he was 17. Jerry Simpson spent the first years of his life in New Brunswick.

Mr. Stephenson, of Michigan, was born in New Brunswick also and remained there until he was 6 years old.

D. A. Harver, the delegate from Oklahoma, was born in Nova Scotia and remained there until he was 7. John T. Caine, the Utah delegate, was born in the Isle of Man, and did not come to the United States until he was 17.

Ireland furnishes more foreign-born members of the house than any other country. Thomas A. E. Weadock, of Michigan, a native of Ballygarret, county Wexford, came over in infancy; M. D. Lagan, of Louisiana, at the age of 14; T. J. Campbell, of New York, a native of county Cavan, at the age of 5; John M. Clancy, of New York, as a child; W. Bourke Cockran, of New York, (who says that he was educated in Ireland and France,) at 17; L. E. McGann, of Illinois, at 3; E. F. McDonald, of New Jersey, as an infant; John G. Warwick, of Ohio, and William McAleer, of Pennsylvania, both natives of county Tyrone, at the ages of 20 and 13 respectively.

Germany furnishes Charles Burwig, of Wisconsin, a native of Hesse Darmstadt, who came over when 8 years old, and George H. Brickner, of Wisconsin, a native of Bavaria, who came over at the age of 8. Lucas M. Miller, of Wisconsin, is a native of Greece, who was adopted by a Col. Miller of the United States and brought to this country when a child.

Nils P. Haugen, of Wisconsin, and Kittel Halvorson, of Minnesota, were born in Norway, and Mr. Halvorson was brought over by his parents when he was only 2 years old. John Lind, of Minnesota, is a native of Sweden. D. B. Henderson, of Iowa, was born in Scotland, and F. E. White, of Iowa, came from Prussia.

THE DEFENSE COMMENCED

In the Celebrated Graves Trial.

The Prosecution States That It Has Nothing Further to Produce —Bolton's Testimony.

Denver, Col., Dec. 24.—The defense in the trial of Dr. Graves has opened its case. Col. Ballou was the most important witness of the session but he failed to clear up any of the charges against the doctor.

Mr. Stevens announced that the prosecution had nothing more to offer. The defense opened its case by placing Edward Field on the stand. Mr. Field is clerk of the probate court in Providence.

He said in May last the wills made by Mrs. Barnaby were offered for probate. The Chester will by Van Slick & Van Slick, lawyers. The second will was handed him by Dr. Graves. This will was handed him in a sealed envelope and it showed no evidence of having been opened. He received it in Dr. Graves' office and opened it and read it at the doctor's request.

Cross-examined by Mr. Pence, he said the Van Slick who gave him the Chester will was the custodian of Mrs. Barnaby's property.

Col. David Bolton, of counsel for the defense, was the next witness. He said he had lived in Providence 25 years and had practiced law 26 years. He had been clerk of the court of common pleas in Providence and had served in the war.

He met Dr. Graves about 35 years ago at a Connecticut school; some three years ago the doctor consulted witness about some little matters, but since then had done no legal business for him until this trial.

His acquaintance with Mrs. Barnaby in October, 1889, and he was summoned in the office of Dr. Graves to see a woman who wanted advice. Dr. Graves said she wished to consult him and Mrs. Barnaby said she was thinking of employing a Mr. Colwell, a lawyer, but had decided not to do so. She wanted an attorney but she did not engage him until a few days later. The will was prepared and he made ready an appeal. Then he started to file a petition for an allowance, a compromise was finally effected and witness charged $10,000 for his fee. He retained this amount out of the first $15,000 paid her from her estate. Later he drew up a will for her in which she left Dr. Graves $25,000. She wanted to mention in the will why she had not left her daughters any money. Witness was not allowed to give these reasons.

TO REPLACE THE MICHIGAN

The Old Relic to be Taken Off the Lakes.

A Model Modern Revenue Marine Vessel Will be Built for the Inland Seas

Chicago, Dec. 24.—A first-class revenue marine vessel, equipped with a battery of rapid firing Hotchkiss guns, and a patrol boat having a revolving battery capable of throwing 41 pound shot per minute, is what is proposed for the harbor of Chicago.

The new revenue vessel will take the place of the old wooden, almost useless Michigan. It will be 186 feet long, 28 feet deep, and have a speed of from 15 to 17 1-2 knots per hour and a complete Hotchkiss battery of rapid firing guns.

It will have a crew of 60 officers and men. The vessel will be long and high out of the water and comparatively narrow, with its sides sufficiently high to easily ride the highest waves on the lake. It will have a spar deck, pilot house, and a bridge overhead and a double pole mast. The engines will be 1,500 horse power.

The patrol boat for the harbor of Chicago will be a model in point of construction. It will be substantial, speedy, and effective in action. It will have a draught of less than seven feet, which will enable it to navigate the Chicago river at pleasure.

Novel Monologue by Stuart Robson, the Comedian.

Effie Ellsler Coming in Hazel Kirke—Christmas Attractions at the Theaters—Dramatic Pointers

"Ah! I'm very glad to see you. Just think. We haven't met since that night in Denver when I was playing in the Comedy of Errors, the greatest success of my career artistically—and financially too, by the way. In 39 weeks our receipts exceeded $250,000! All nonsense to declare that "Shakespeare spells ruin." It may have spelled ruin in the days of Charles Kean, when people were not ripe for him, but the greatest fortunes to-day are made by Shakespearean plays. Look at Booth and Irving! I tell you that Shakespeare has floated a lot of us. Is it a wonder that tragedians are such big guns, when they have such splendid ammunition? The divine bard has been far less generous to us low comedians. If Benedick were only low comedy, what a chance we might have! Comedians nowadays don't have the opportunity to test their mettle as had an older generation. We must be gentlemen of the period. We don a dress coat in January and keep it on until December. We play one part, not many.

"In earlier days it was Touchstone on Monday, Toby Twinkle on Tuesday, Dr. Ollapod on Wednesday, Dr. Pangloss on Thursday, Caleb Plummer on Friday, and so on. Then there was the farce, in which the low comedian was king. Look at the farces Madison Morton wrote for fellows like me! Those were the "palmy days of the theater," when my salary was $14 a week and I didn't get it! Well do I remember a season in Boston when we played a grand moral drama entitled The Bottle. It was the manager's wont to appear after the performance with his hands full of half dollars and dole them out to the actors according to their necessities and his possibilities. On this particular night the manager got ahead of time and made himself visible in the wings at a pathetic moment when I was listening to an account of the awful effects of drink. The half dollars glistened. It was first come, first served. What were the evils of an emptied bottle compared with the evils of an empty purse? The audience never knew why I walked off that stage, leaving my partner in sin to address thin air. Catching the idea, my sinful partner also walked himself off, and the stage was a aching void. Only 30 years ago! Theaters then were a luxury, and only moderately attended. Now they are a necessity. Everybody goes, and the actor reaps the reward of full houses.

"The success of The Henrietta has never faltered. It is a good play. Mrs. Kendal, who saw it in Chicago, wrote me a note stating it was the best comedy she had ever seen. I'm sure it would have been successful without 'stars' had it been rendered by a good all-around company. It is not easy to write plays. A combination of actor and inventive literateur ought to make the best dramatist. Very few know that Joseph Jefferson aided Tom Taylor in his drama, the Ticket-of-Leave Man, Jefferson being the original Bob Brierly when it was brought out in Australia. I think Jefferson was with Tom Taylor in London while playing Rip Van Winkle. I'd rather have Jefferson's judgment on a play than that of any man living.

"You think that Bret Harte could write a play. I certainly did, for all his characters are dramatic. Sounding my faith on this fact, I engaged him to write "Two Men of Sandy Bar," and I lost $10,000, the savings of ten years. What a bad play! And yet it contained great characters. My part, Colonel Starbotte, was splendid as a unit. Boucicault said one day, "Did you ever read that play without Starbotte? If not, see how much better it is." By Jove, it was. Harte's play was one of those unique creations in which the more clever characters you cut out, the better it became! The same was finally effected and witness charged $10,000 for his fee. He retained this amount out of the first $15,000 paid her from her estate. Later he drew up a will for her in which she left Dr. Graves $25,000. She wanted to mention in the will why she had not left her daughters any money. Witness was not allowed to give these reasons.

MICHIGAN LOST HER LAND.

Important Decision in the Supreme Court.

Ten Million Dollars Worth of Property Has Slipped Away From the State by a Lack of Action.

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 24.—The Michigan supreme court has rendered a decision involving a greater money value directly than any before in its history.

In 1887 the state brought suit against the Flint & Pere Marquette Railway company to obtain title to 16,000 acres of land which it claimed came to the state under the United States swamp land grant of 1850 instead of the railroad land grant of 1857, under which the road had been in undisputed possession of the land for 28 years.

The state secured a verdict in the court below, but coming to this court the decision is unanimously set aside. The court says that the lapse of time the state has slept upon its rights effectually estops it from obtaining a title, and that it has no claim in equity, justice or good conscience.

The decision affirms title to lands acquired in the same way by the Jackson, Lansing & Saginaw and Grand Rapids & Indiana roads, and of individuals, covering in all 1,500,000 acres, estimated to be worth from $7,000,000 to $10,000,000.

CHRISTMAS IN TOLEDO.

The Great Holiday Will Be Fittingly Observed

At the Churches, Theaters, Hotels, Charitable Institutions and Among the People Generally.

"In faith and hope the world will disagree,
But all mankind's concern is charity;
All must be false that thwart this one great end,
And all of God, that bless mankind or mend."

The greatest and most universally observed religious and public holiday of the year is Christmas, and to-morrow the people of Toledo—good and bad, old and young, sick and poor, will celebrate the day in a manner best suited to their tastes, desires and circumstances. The well-to-do can best observe it by reaching out a helping hand to a brother less blest and the poor will be all the happier for gifts received by confirming in their hearts their often sadly abused faith in human kindness.

"The secret pleasure of a generous act
Is the great mind's great bribe."

It is fortunate that the weather has been such that the poor and needy are not distressed, as in other years, for the lack of clothing or fuel, but there are hundreds of poor families in Toledo to whom fuel or a piece of meat of some kind would be most acceptable. It is hard for many to believe there will be any hungry in Toledo to-morrow, and yet it is a fact.

At the Churches.

The day will be observed in almost all the churches of the city as a holiday, and special services will be held. The Episcopalians, Lutherans and Catholics particularly will celebrate the day with impressive and special ceremonies. In all the Catholic churches services will be held as on Sunday with a special service in the evening. The arrangement for many of the other churches are noted elsewhere.

At the Theaters.

Special attractions are on at both theaters. Ida Van Cortland and company will give two performances of "Lucretia Borgia" at Wheeler's, afternoon and evening.

At the People's the bill will be changed to "Nobody's Claim," and a special matinee will be given in the afternoon.

At the Hotels.

The various hotels of the city are preparing elaborate bills of fares and superb dinners will be set up in all of them to-morrow. The Boody, Jefferson, Burnett, Merchants, Madison, Hamilton and Union have all made special arrangements for a tempting banquet, and the bills of fares are dreams of delicacies. The majority of hotel patrons, however, will prefer to eat their Christmas dinners with families and friends, and the rush will not be such as will weary the waiters.

At the Charitable Institutions.

At St. Vincent's Orphanage, the Children's Home and the Little Sisters of the Poor the day will be celebrated with special dinners, and in most cases with entertainments in the evening. Those with a surplus of good things will find an excellent opportunity of exercising a little charity by sending a little something to the old men and women in charge of the Little Sisters of the Poor. It is a needy and deserving charity.

Public Institutions.

At the jail and work house special arrangements are being made for an extra dinner. Sheriff Stuart will have the customary layout of turkey and trimmings, and at the work house a special spread will be given to the inmates. To none does Christmas come with so many appreciated blessings as to the inmates of these institutions.

At the asylum a farce comedy will take the place of the usual dance in the evening, and turkey, cranberries and the like will be served for dinner.

SENECA COUNTY FARMERS,

Splendid Meeting Held at Bloomville.

Bad Roads Do Not Prevent the Tillers of the Soil From Turning Out in Large Numbers

Bloomville, O., Dec. 24.—The fourth annual meeting of the Seneca County Institute association is in session in Miller's opera house at this place, and the town to-day was filled with farmers from all portions of the county.

Nearly every grange and alliance has representatives present, and the interest in the work of the institute is sufficient to attract hundreds of prominent and intelligent agriculturists from remote districts.

The sessions are devoted to lectures on technical subjects connected with agriculture, discussions and queries, as well as essays, recitations and music.

Waldo F. Brown, the well-known writer and lecturer on farm topics, is present, and lectured on "The When and How in Farming," "A Wheat Talk," and "Wanted, a Man."

S. E. Todd of Wakeman gave a most valuable lecture on "Raising Hogs for Profit."

The meeting closes to-day, and although the bad state of the roads prevented many from coming, the attendance was very large.

BUNCO MAN O'BRIEN.

His Case Again Put Off for a Time.

The Officers Are Making a Desperate Attempt to Bring Him Back to the United States.

London, Dec. 24.—Tom O'Brien, the New York bunco steerer, who is wanted in Albany, N. Y., for swindling James W. Peck, of that city, was again arraigned at the Bow Street police court to-day.

O'Brien was defended by Mr. Gill and said that the United States authorities had realized that they could not obtain the prisoner's extradition on the charge of larceny and that therefore they had amended their complaint into one of robbery with violence.

Mr. Gill claimed to be able to show that the violence referred to consisted only in the fact that the prisoner had shouted and waved his arms and that the term violence in the complaint was used only in a formal manner and with the view of obtaining the necessary extradition order which would enable them to take the prisoner back to the United States and try him for larceny.

Finally Mr. Gill asked that the prisoner be remanded for three weeks, saying that he would then be in possession of evidence which would enable him to argue on the questions of law which enter into the case.

In any case, Mr. Gill added, he must demand that the presiding magistrate make a special report upon the case.

SHE SAVED HER JEWELS.

A Woman Who Made a Good Run with Her Diamonds.

Troy, N. Y., Dec. 24.—Two masked burglars entered the residence of Willard M. Searle, superintendent of the United States Shirt and Collar company, on Second avenue, Lansingburg, early last evening.

At the point of a revolver they compelled the servant girl to disclose the whereabouts of all valuables in the house.

Mrs. Searle saw the burglars coming up stairs. She ran into her room, caught up a box of jewels containing several thousand dollars' worth of diamonds, and opening a window jumped 16 feet to the ground, breaking her arm.

She aroused the neighbors, but the burglars escaped by the back door, taking with them about $1,000 worth of booty. This is the tenth burglary in Lansingburg within three weeks. Three young men have been arrested on suspicion.

DR. TOBEY'S METERS

Will be Manufactured by the Metric Metal Co.

At Erie, Pennsylvania—A Big Business Transaction Which Will be Profitable to All Parties.

Dr. H. A. Tobey, formerly superintendent of the Toledo asylum, has closed a contract with the Standard by which his gas meter will be manufactured by that company.

Gas experts have pronounced Dr. Tobey's meter the most practical, and, in every respect, the best in the market, and after giving it a thorough trial, the Metric Metal company, of Erie, Pennsylvania, (which is a branch of the Standard), has purchased the right of manufacture.

By the terms of the contract Dr. Tobey receives a handsome bonus and a royalty on all meters of this patent manufactured by the company. It is expected that at least 20,000 of the Tobey meters will be made in 1892.

Dr. Tobey is to be personally connected with the company at least two years at a lucrative salary, and contracts to devote at least three-fourths of his time to supervising the manufacture of the meters. He will commence January 1.

This business arrangement will preclude the Doctor from again entering upon asylum work. It may not be out of place to say, however, that Gov. McKinley offered him the superintendency of the Toledo Asylum. The Doctor is thoroughly impressed with the necessity of absolutely non-partisan boards in Ohio and will assist in that direction at all times.

The friends of Dr. Tobey congratulate him upon the successful placing of his meter invention. He is a remarkable genius at invention and his talents persistently applied will make him both fortune and fame.

ANOTHER CHRISTMAS TREE

And Another Happy Lot of Little Kindergarteners.

Another circle of happy children's faces around another Christmas tree this morning at the Y's kindergarten in the Helping Hand mission. The history of this kindergarten was given in last Saturday's Bee, with the announcement that the Christmas gifts for the children would be distributed this morning. The little ones were all there, of course, and so were the presents.

Mrs. Dr. L. L. Barber, superintendent of the kindergarten of the Ys, Miss Belle Blakeslee, teacher of the school, and Miss Lottie Boddy, assistant, were the distributors. The circle of Kings Daughters, First Congregational church, of which Mrs. Barber is president, sent in presents of toys and candies, and a little white handkerchief for each of the children. Gifts were also sent from Miss Louise Clifton's private school. There was enough to make each little childish heart overflow with happiness, and all were happy indeed.

ANOTHER EGAN IN TROUBLE

Chilian Minister's Nephew Under Arrest.

Taken to Jail Just as He Was About to Wed a Wealthy Widow, on a Very Serious Charge.

Spokane Falls, Wash., Dec. 24.—Patrick Egan, nephew of the minister in Chili, was arrested yesterday when about to be married.

He is a cattle king and was about to wed Mrs. Matilda Widner, the widow of the late auditor of the Spokane & Kootenai navigation company.

Yesterday morning was the time set for the wedding, but when the clergyman asked if any one had any objection to interpose, H. W. Cole, the prospective bride's son-in-law, and a deputy United States marshal, rose and exclaimed: I have a warrant for your arrest, Egan," and took the disappointed bridegroom to jail.

Mrs. Widner fainted. The charge preferred is that Egan betrayed Annie Widner, the twelve year old daughter of the woman he was about to wed.

An immediate hearing was demanded, and upon corroborative evidence Egan was bound over.

LONDON IN A FOG.

The Usual Christmas Scenes on the Streets.

Torches and Lanterns Used to Pilot the Cabs Through the Sticky Dampness.

London, Dec. 24.—This city is still hidden beneath a fog of phenomenal blackness and thickness. For 70 hours has London, to all intents and purposes, been plunged in darkness.

Throughout the day the street lamps, to say nothing of the lights within doors, have been alight and link-boys are making small fortunes by piloting cabs and other vehicles through the streets by the aid of torches or lanterns. Regular traffic and trade are at a standstill, and navigation on the river Thames has been completely stopped.

Many proprietors of jewelry stores and other such places have shut up their shutters until the fog clears away. They are doing absolutely no business and fear the visitation of thieves. The entire police force may be said to have been on duty night and day throughout the 70 hours of black fog. As this dispatch is sent, there is no sign of the fog lifting, and the city remains covered by the most dense pall of fog within the recollection of the present generation of Londoners.

CANADA'S SCANDAL.

Everybody Has Been Robbing the Government.

A Small Matter of $1,600,000 Charged Up to "Special Expenditures" with No Explanation.

New York, Dec. 24.—A Montreal special to the Press says: The new treasurer of the province of Quebec, on taking possession yesterday at once instituted an investigation, and announces that there has been found an item of $1,600,000 called "special expenditures," which swells the total deficit or excess of expenditures over receipts to $2,223,000. The department is now engaged in tracing this $1,600,000. In doing this the fact was stumbled over that Philip Valliéres, who indorsed Editor Pleands and Minister Mercier's notes in the late Chaleurs scandal, has had a private contract with the government to furnish all the public buildings in the province with everything in the way of furniture.

He drew hundreds of thousands of dollars for goods, worth only half what he charged for them.

DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Sacramento, Cal., Dec. 24.—The warehouse of the hardware establishment of Baker & Hamilton was destroyed by fire yesterday. Loss on stock estimated from $65,000 to $70,000, covered by $50,000 insurance. The stock in the main store was slightly damaged by smoke and water. Four tons metallic rifle cartridges exploded. Two firemen were blown from ladder 15 feet from the door, not seriously injured, however.

A man breathes about 18 pints of air per minute, or upward of seven hogsheads in a day.

RUSSELL NOT A CANDIDATE

Massachusetts is Loyal to Cleveland.

Strong Words Come From the Bay State Democrat, Who Has Won Many Hearts.

Boston, Dec. 24.—There was a world of meaning in the few sentences in which Gov. Russell at the dinner of the Young Men's Democratic club expressed his desire for the renomination of ex-President Cleveland. Gov. Russell is himself a kind of conditional candidate for the same nomination.

Ever since his re-election as governor last November his name has been talked about in connection with the action of the next democratic national convention, and he has many friends here, with not inconsiderable influence in the party abroad, who in season and out of season are pushing his merits and availibility to the attention of democrats everywhere.

There is no string tied to Gov. Russell's professed loyalty to Mr. Cleveland. He is without reservation in favor of the renomination of the ex-president. But his friends, or at least many of them who are sponsors for his little boom, are in favor of nothing of the kind, and their attitude towards Mr. Cleveland is so well known, and their advocacy of Gov. Russell has been and is so positive and persistent, that the governor for weeks felt that his silence might be construed into an indorsement and approval of their attitude of hostility to Mr. Cleveland. This is why he spoke so positively last night. He himself will not be a candidate except in the capacity of Mr. Cleveland's residuary legatee.

A MURDER IN BOSTON.

Stupid Work Allows the Criminal to Escape.

Bold Men Watched the Door of His Hotel Room While He Made His Escape From the Window.

Boston, Dec. 24.—A murder was committed in the Sudbury house this morning. Hosea Barton, the night clerk, heard two pistol shots in close succession from the upper part of the house.

He rushed up stairs and was met in the hall on the third floor by the occupants of room 14, who said the shots came from the opposite room, the door of which was locked.

A chair was obtained and Barton looked in over the transom. He saw a man sitting on the bed with a revolver in his hand, pointing toward the door, and a woman lying on the bed on her back with blood pouring from a wound in her head.

One of the men went for the officers while the other covered the door. When the officers arrived the man was gone, having escaped from a window by means of the fire escape.

The couple came to the house about 11:30, the man registering as R. F. Scannel, Lawrence, Mass. He was of medium height, wore dark clothes, and a colored shirt. The woman is about 35 years of age, and her name is said to be Josie Brown. The Sudbury hotel is of a low character.

McAULIFFE AND MYER.

New York, Dec. 24.—Jack McAuliffe wired Charles Noel, president of the Olympic club of New Orleans last night that he would fight Billy Myer in that city for a purse of $10,000 and for $7,000 a side. Mc Auliffe expresses surprise at Carrol's defeat by Myer.

FOUND DEAD IN A BARN.

Sad Termination of a Mechanic's Life.

Playing in Hard Luck, He Was Too Proud to Beg and Met Death While Walking to His Friends.

Muncie, Ind., Dec. 24.—This morning at Albany, a few miles east of this city James Wasson was horrified to find the dead body of a man in an old buggy shed. A letter was found on his person from Miss Mary Grossman, No. 255 Walnut street, Cincinnati, addressed to Henry Hines, No. 429 Claybourn street, Milwaukee.

The young lady's brother in this city identified the man, who was a skilled mechanic, for a long time employed as foreman at Hubbard's spoke factory at Hartford City; also once a machinist of Ft. Wayne, and well educated and respected.

His parents are dead and he has a brother and sister at Sandusky, O., where it is thought he started to walk, having recently lost a situation in this city and being too proud to beg.

It is hoped all members of the club will be present to listen to the plan of work outlined for the coming year.

THE REPUBLICAN CLUB.

The Toledo republican club met last night and completed arrangements to attend the inauguration of Gov. McKinley at Columbus, January 4. It was decided to go as a body and in uniform—silk hat, Mackintosh and cane. The club will be strongly represented. It was also resolved to keep open house at the club rooms on New Year's day.

THE THUNDERBOLT DROPS

And Breaks the Slumbers of the Natural Gas Board.

Trustee Clarence Brown Hands in His Resignation to Mayor Emmick—The Whys and Wherefores of This Maneuver.

The thunderbolt predicted in an article printed elsewhere as likely to drop in the natural gas board has come more suddenly than anticipated, and it comes in a somewhat different form.

Mr. Clarence Brown this morning sent in his resignation to Mayor Emmick.

Mr. Brown ever since the combine, referred to in the article spoken of, has been forced into a position where his ability to cope with the obstacles that barred the path of the enterprise was handicapped by incompetency, ignorance and deliberate plotting.

Following is a copy of the missive sent the Mayor:

Toledo, O., December, 24, 1891.

Hon. V. J. Emmick, Mayor:

Dear Sir: I hereby tender my resignation as a member of the Board of Natural Gas Trustees of Toledo.

It has long been my desire to be relieved from the onerous duties of this position. Accepting the office at the solicitation of those who were friendly to the enterprise, I continued in it from that sense of obligation which grows out of the acceptance of a public trust.

Had I not believed that I could, in some measure, aid in bringing the project to a successful termination, my inclination and my interests would have alike prompted an earlier retirement.

Personal and professional affairs require my entire time and effort. If I continue in the office, I must either sacrifice individual interests or neglect public duties. I am unwilling to do either.

I therefore submit my resignation to take effect this day.

I have the honor to be yours very respectfully,

CLARENCE BROWN.

CYRUS W. FIELD.

New York, Dec. 24.—Cyrus W. Field's condition remains unchanged. He is still weak and helpless and the fact that he has not rallied from the last of his severe shocks gives his friends and relatives much anxiety.

Paris, Dec. 24.—A dispatch from Algiers says that the Ameurs tribe has rebelled against the authority of the French, and that there has been fighting in Ain-Sefra, a village 150 miles southwest of Oran, the capital of the province of that name.

SIXTY WERE KILLED.

FLOATER FOUND.

The body of a man, about 32 years of age, was found in the river, near Schutzen Park, this morning. The coroner viewed the remains, and from his investigations it was evident that the man had been in the water about two weeks.

The only thing to identify the man was the name J. Kessler on his vest. The body is at Coyle's undertaking establishment.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY

At Noon To-day—An Old Man's Pockets Rifled.

A highway robbery on the streets of the city at noon to-day was a somewhat sensational incident, adding one more crime to the tough district between Monroe street and the creek.

Jerry Donavin, an old man, was attacked by two men on Lafayette street, and while one of the men held him, the other went through his pockets, securing about $2 in change.

Both of the robbers were arrested a few minutes later by Detective Nichter, and locked up at the central police station, where they gave the names of Francis Sullivan and William Louis, and they have only been in the city a few days, coming here from Cleveland.

HE HELD THE TRAIN.

A Crazy Man Causes Much Trouble.

It Takes the United Efforts of Trainmen and Police Officers to Get Him Off the Cars.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 24.—The Rock Island train came in from the east late this morning with a most undesirable passenger aboard. When it pulled into the Union depot at 11:45 o'clock it was found that there was a man in the toilet-room, and he refused to come out.

Crouched in the corner of the apartment he refused to listen to reason, and with glaring eyes warned everyone to keep away from him. It was evident he was a lunatic.

Trainmaster James Blair, who was in the car, summoned a porter to his assistance and attempted to put the man off the train. They had undertaken too big a task.

The man, a tall, powerful Irishman, opened a pocket-knife and fought like a fiend. As Blair grappled with him he buried the knife in Blair's left leg just above the calf, piercing the flesh to the bone. He was then given possession of the toilet-room and bolted the door.

Police Lieutenant Boulware and a number of policemen were soon upon the ground, and another effort was made to induce the man to surrender, but he refused, and an attack was made upon his stronghold. A truck was pushed to the side of the car and Lieutenant Boulware mounting it knocked out the window. The man on the inside crouched in the corner with the open bloody knife tight in his hand.

"Throw out that knife or I will kill you," yelled Boulware. The maniac glared at him, but did not move.

"Throw it out," and Boulware pointed his club at him as though it was a revolver.

The man then closed the knife and, after considerable urging, finally threw it out of the window. Boulware then called to the officers in the car, and they broke in the door. The man surrendered without further resistance and was taken to the St. Louis Avenue police station. At the station the man said his name was Thomas P. Herrington. He had a railway ticket in his pocket from Boston to San Francisco bearing that name. In a wild, rambling way and with a heavy Irish brogue he told his story.

He said he had been working at the Union Docks, San Francisco, but decided to go to St. Louis to see his brother. When he got to St. Louis he found that his brother had been dead for three years. Then he went to New York and Boston, and then started back to San Francisco.

WENT BROKE ON THE FIGHT

Carroll's Friends Lost a Pile of Money.

Bob Fitzsimmons Bet All the Money He Could Borrow and Lost It for His Friends.

San Francisco, Dec. 24.—Carroll's defeat cost 'Frisco sports some money, but what they lost is nothing to what they would have sunk had Myers' Chicago friends sent out coin here to the pool rooms.

Although the Carroll men were willing to give odds of $10 to 87 Tuesday afternoon, no money could be found.

Bob Fitzsimmons must have been completely cleaned out, as he declared before he left here that he would bet everything he could borrow on Carroll.

Fitzsimmons has lost with his partnership with Carroll, for Jimmy has induced him to go into several losing speculations. Fitzsimmons had so little cash that he was forced to borrow enough to pay his fare to New Orleans.

THE SPEAKER'S WIFE.

She is a Typical Southern Woman.

Domestic in Her Tastes—Well Informed and Interested in Her Husband's Career, but an Invalid.

Mrs. Charles Crisp, wife of the new speaker of the house of representatives, is not at all well known to the country at large, or to this city even, says a Washington correspondent of the New York Recorder. She is a southern woman of Georgia birth, and was born and brought up in Ellaville, near Americus, the Crisps' present home.

She is now, that of a typical southern woman. Her father was a wealthy planter, whose plantation swarmed with slaves, and the lap of luxury and gold spoons fell to Mrs. Crisp's girlhood. When quite young she was married to young Crisp, and the pair made a home in Americus, where they have lived ever since. Four children came to demand Mrs. Crisp's care, and she devoted herself to them and to her home. One girl is married and lives in Americus, while the two younger children, a boy and a girl, are in school yet. A son, who was an especial favorite of the speaker, died just before the speakership fight began in earnest. This will probably prevent Mrs. Crisp from feeling at all like going into society.

She is very domestic in her tastes, and is also a severe sufferer from rheumatism, which prevented her last season from even returning calls. Although her choice would lead her to remain in Georgia, Mrs. Crisp has always spent the winters with Mr. Crisp at the Metropolitan hotel, where she is a favorite with the southern contingent. She is a well-informed woman, interested in her husband's career, and has a disposition that is a match for the speaker's in its firmness and evenness.

While the speaker's wife has an exclusive position, and ranks along with cabinet ladies, it is not probable that Mrs. Crisp will feel like assuming it unless her health should improve greatly.

Rosa Bonheur has finished the largest animal picture ever painted. It is called Le Depiquage and represents 10 horses, large as life, trotting over the threshing floor still used in parts of southern Europe. She has been working on it for three years, and has refused an offer of $60,000.

NOTICE.

Gustav Benson, of Chicago, Illinois, is hereby notified that on the 4th day of November, 1891, Thomas Hamilton, as plaintiff, filed against said Gustav Benson, et al, as defendants, in the court of common pleas of Lucas county, Ohio, the petition, alleging there is due to said plaintiff, Thomas Hamilton, on a lease and mortgage, fully set forth in said petition, executed by Hamlin H. Napier to Albert E. Lawrence, and by said Lawrence assigned to plaintiff, the sum of five hundred and twenty-seven dollars and forty-three cents ($527.43) dollars, with interest at seven per cent. from November 4th, 1891; which said indebtedness, by virtue of said mortgage, is a lien upon the following described lands, viz:

The west three-fourths (3-4) of the west one-half (1-2) of the southwest quarter (1-4) of section number three (3); also the south three-fourths (3-4) of the east one-half (1-2) of the southeast quarter (1-4) of section number four (4) and the northeast quarter (1-4) of the northeast quarter (1-4) of section number nine (9) all in town number ten (10) south, range number five (5) east, containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres, more or less, and situate in Spencer township, of Lucas county, Ohio; that whatever interest in said lands the said Gustav Benson has, is inferior and subject to said mortgage. Said petition prays that the land may be ordered sold for the payment of the amount due the plaintiff in the premises. Said defendant is required to file his answer to the said petition, which is still pending, on or before the 26th day of February, 1892.

NO PAPER TO-MORROW.

Of course not, because to-morrow is Christmas and the Bees will observe the merry day without work, like everybody else.

A merry, merry Christmas to every reader of the Bee, and to everybody else.

Congressman Layton of Wapakoneta was highly honored by Speaker Crisp by being placed on the judiciary committee.

Col. Haynes is a member of the committee on rivers and harbors, the very best place for good work for this marine district.

As small as Sala now is he will appear much smaller when the police board investigates his complaint against Chief O'Dwyer.

Ohio claims four chairmanships—Outhwaite, military affairs; Owens, expenditures in the interior department; Haynes, alcoholic liquors; and Warwick, enrolled bills.

The Foraker fellows seem to depend upon brass band enthusiasm produced by Asa Bushnell's money. Asa wants to be the next governor of Ohio.

There is a growing opinion that the St. Louis Republic is degenerating into a bad scold. Right about, Col. Jones, and rap the enemy over the knuckles.

Spring mud and natural gas furnaces interfere sadly with Santa's reindeer and chimney performance. The legend needs revising for some portions of the country.

In another column will be found an article on "Political Education in Ohio" in which the Chicago Herald pays its respects to Toledo's foremost republican, Gen. W. I. Squire.

Claude Meeker, private secretary of Gov. Campbell, will resume newspaper work next month, and has accepted a position with the Cincinnati Post. Claude is one of the best all-round workers in the state.

Somebody ought to tell Representative Heller that since Griffin withdrew from the speakership contest his influence in the house will be largely minus. Heller ought to go it alone, like his silver haired partner, Mr. Flickinger.

The Canton News-Democrat (Gen. Sherwood's paper) has just completed a new building for its accommodation, an elegant structure, in keeping with the splendid character of the newspaper. It feels much at home in its new home.

Very likely neighbor Mack, of the Sandusky Register, does not want to go to congress, but for the immense service he has performed for his party in Ohio the republican legislature ought to make a district in which he can be nominated and elected. Such men deserve well, and political parties should not be proverbially ungrateful.

The verdict of the country generally will be favorable to the selection of Springer for chairman of the ways and means committee. Long and faithful service in congress has made him familiar with legislative and government requirements, and earnest study of the science of political economy has made him a practical reformer. He will be the democratic leader of the house, and the welfare of the party will be safe in his hands.

All the candidates for speaker, except Laylin and McGrew, are now out of the way, and the senatorial contest centers upon this preliminary election. Aside from senatorial preferences, Mr. Laylin of Huron is much better qualified for the office, and northwestern Ohio representatives ought to manifest an interest in his election. A friendly speaker can help Toledo very much, and therefore Lucas county representatives ought to stand by their neighbor, Mr. Laylin.

Astronomers are again discussing the probability of the appearance of the "Star of Bethlehem" at the latter end of the present century. Some of the best scientists fully believe it will be seen again within the closing years of the nineties. But the majority of writers on the subject believe that the star which "stood over the manger where the young child lay" was a spiritual phenomenon and will never again appear to veiled mortal eyes as it did to the wise men of old.

Ben Butterworth is generally recognized as one of the stalwart republicans of Ohio—a man who knows all about the state and its politics. Speaking of the senatorial situation he says much in little, as follows:

In common with four-fifths of the republicans of Ohio I earnestly favor the return of John Sherman to the United States senate. It is certain that if those who are elected to the house and senate from our county pay proper heed to the known preference of their constituents, Senator Sherman will get every vote in the Hamilton county delegation.

"Wish you Merry Christmas." There are no jingling of bells, no frost crystals, no roaring fires, but the day comes with unerring regularity and the world never mistakes. There is the consoling thought that, while the April weather is hard on the poultry merchants and the venders of sleds and skates, it is a boon to the poor who must get along with scant fuel or none at all. Nobody will shiver and freeze in this latitude these days. And the glad heart need not depend at all on the condition of skies and soil. It is good schooling for mankind to learn to rise above and out of his surroundings, and few of us realize how we can command ourselves when we try in earnest.

Canada's Colonel Denison, like our own illustrious Shepard, has his hands full and more too. A distinguished Canadian visiting in the south, interviewed by the newspaper boys, says:

"Why should not North America be subject to one government? Extent of territory can be no obstacle. Congress could as well administer the affairs of the whole continent as of the southern half of it. The laws of nature not only favor the union, but seem to demand it. The best results in human development upon the continent cannot be reached while interests naturally in harmony are, by artificial and unnatural means, made to clash. The arbitrary line dividing the continent in two parts from east to west is in the face of all natural laws. An arbitrary line from north to south would not so flagrantly violate the laws of the very elements. * * All this might be brought about, not by purchase nor by conquest, not by the expenditure of treasure or blood, but by revolution. However great might be the advantages to the United States, the advantages would be greater to Canada. Because of this advantage to Canada she would be a willing party to the arrangement. Her connection with Great Britain is now purely a matter of sentiment. The material benefits of the relationship, if they ever existed, have long since passed away, and the sentiment itself is paling in the light of commercial necessities."

What is this but rank treason? Then here is the Toronto News, a conservative paper, saying:

"The population statistics recently issued by the Dominion government has caused a feeling of unrest and discontent, and that there is too much feeling in favor of a radical change in the political status."

And a correspondent writing in the same strain:

"In 1867, the date of the confederation of the Canadian provinces, our public debt was $77,000,000, or $21 per head of the population. Now it is practically $250,000,000, or $50 per head. During the past ten years the whole natural increase of our population left the country, and half the immigrants brought over have followed. The best material for citizenship in most cases goes, while the less desirable remains. Is it not time that something is done?"

These are all Canadians, and the colonel of "Never the southerner's neck on our heel" notoriety should go gunning at once.

The Only Reason.

This is the only reason a democrat could have for favoring Foraker for senator: Foraker would let himself out on every possible occasion and go through more antics and occasion more genuine amusement to light up the dreariness of that body than anyone in the United States. The feeling which democrats entertain for him is not of hatred, but they look upon him as the most blatant demagogue that ever entered the political arena. The nasty sentences he has uttered, the slanders he has told, the frauds which he has aided along in order to ruin the reputation of an adversary, even being willing to pull down men like Sherman in his own party in order to accomplish his ends, are all fresh in memory, and tell without criticism whether the ex-governor is worthy of the honor to which he aspires.—Youngstown Vindicator.

We All See It Alike.

The republicans of Indiana have reason to feel more elated than ever that they have a president who has the courage and manliness to do justice where justice is due, regardless of the wicked and lawless elements that are relentlessly opposed to Judge Woods because he strangled one of their accursed conspiracies.—Lafayette Courier.

This is a naive confession of Judge Woods' offense, only he "strangled" 131 accursed conspiracies by preventing the indictment of Dudley and releasing 130 other secundrels who had been indicted by the grand jury. It must be gratifying to the judge to know that his political friends view the matter just as his political opponents do, only they express it differently.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

Facts from History.

Since it came into power, more than thirty years ago, the republican party has taken every presidential candidate from the west but one, Lincoln, Grant, Hayes, Garfield and Harrison were all western men.

Only once has the party put forward an eastern candidate—Mr. Blaine in 1884—and only in that year has it been defeated.

These are historical facts which it is worth while for the democrats to think about.—New York Herald.

Forefathers' Day in Boston.

"Forefathers' Day" commemoration by the Congregational club in Music hall last night brought out the usual large gathering and some graceful and interesting speeches. Every year finds not only Boston and New York but newer and remoter communities far off toward the Pacific honoring the heroic virtues of the pilgrims. Their memory is one of the strongest ties which bind together the sons of New England, wherever their paths may have led.—Boston Journal.

Harrison's Menagerie.

It is about time that Secretary Noble carried out his oft-reported determination to resign. Another vacancy in the cabinet is really essential to enable the president to make it symmetrical. He now has Blaine, Foster, Wanamaker, and Elkins. He certainly should devise some means to get rid of Platt and Quay, lest his menagerie of spotted statesmen.—Chicago Times.

The Times-Record Sees the Fun of It.

The startling headlines over column announcements of the fact that a representative-elect who has been classed a Foraker man right along is going to vote for Foraker are exceedingly funny—only less humorous than the regular column of idiotic gabble in the Commercial-Enquirer, entitled "The Essence of Political Gossip."—Zanesville Times-Record.

Behind the Times.

The latest newspaper picture representing Mrs. Cleveland caressing a dog seems to be a trifle behind the times. Mrs. Cleveland is not wasting many precious moments over coolies and poodles in this merry Christmas season. She has something a good deal better to occupy her time.—Kansas City Star.

The McKinley Octopus.

The New York custom house has seized a painting of "The Lion in Ambush." The real lion in ambush is the McKinley octopus.—Philadelphia Record.

Too Tough.

The young emperor of China is trying to learn English. When he strikes such words as dough, cough, he may give it up as too tough.—New Delta.

All On a Christmas Morning.

Mr. Harrison would like to find a declination of the presidential nomination from Mr. Blaine in his Christmas stocking.—Courier Journal.

NATURAL GAS IN COURT.

Indiana May Yet Be Able to Shut Off Chicago.

Wabash, Ind., Dec. 24.—Judge Burson has rendered his decision in the injunction suit of Shirke against the Indiana Natural Gas and Oil company, and the Columbus Construction company. Shirke, who claims to own a small strip of ground near Logansport, obtained a temporary injunction against the companies before Judge McConnell preventing them from laying the pipes necessary to convey the gas to Chicago.

The plaintiff also contested the right of the defendant to convey gas beyond the limits of the state to Chicago without supplying Indiana towns along the line.

Judge Burson rendered his decision partly in favor of the defendants, holding that the restraining order may be so modified as to allow defendants to lay the pipes on depositing $100 with the clerk of the court, to be used if necessary to pay the cost of the removal of the pipes should the court upon final hearing amend the right herein granted.

The case has attracted widespread attention and if Judge Burson's decision is not modified upon final hearing it will give the gas companies a clean sweep to the state line.

PLUMB'S SUCCESSOR.

Dispatches from Topeka say George T. Anthony is a senatorial possibility to succeed Plumb. Gov. Humphrey might as well continue the late incumbent. He is no more dead than Anthony.—Kansas City Star.

Former Ingalls probably will be appointed to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Plumb. If Ingalls and Peffer ever cross swords in the senate their colleagues would do well to take to the woods for awhile.—Chicago Herald.

The low-tariff republicans of the west lost their strongest man in losing Plumb. It is safe to say that his successor will be a hide-bound McKinleyite who could not pull a third of the vote of Kansas if the people were allowed to have anything to do with filling the vacancy.—St. Louis Republic.

There is intimation that the governor will select the dissolved statesman out of a job. * * * Major Anthony has made a number of extraordinary shocks to the peculiar consciences Harrison as two of many illustrations. Harrison's appointment of Stover Eaton as secretary of war and Noble's promotion of the appellate bench. But it is doubtful if a republican governor of Kansas would venture to make Ingalls the successor of Plumb. It is the last straw that breaks the camel's back.—Chicago Times.

THE BUZZING BEE.

Some Kind Words from Appreciative Contemporaries.

The Toledo Bee, the busiest bee in the Ohio hive of journalism, has just erected a monument to its industry and prosperity, in the form of a five-story building with a tower, and all the improvements necessary to a complete city daily newspaper of the present day. The Bee works early and late for its patrons, culling honey for them from everything in news and sound editorials. It is the great newspaper of northwestern Ohio, and deserves unlimited prosperity.—Wayne County Democrat.

The Toledo Daily Bee of the 19th inst. comes to us spread out to 24 pages, giving a glowing account of the new five-story building that its proprietors have just completed and from which that paper will hereafter be published. We are glad to note this prosperity of the best paper that emanates from that city. Long may the Bee live to sting the misdoings of the republican party.—Mercer County Standard.

The Toledo Evening Bee recently moved into its handsome new building, and on Saturday last that paper appeared with a finely illustrated edition, giving a description of the new building and its various departments. The Bee is prosperous and always newsy.—Sandusky Daily Journal.

The biggest Bee we ever saw, is the Toledo Bee of December 19th, 1891. It is a hummer!—People's Advocate, Canal Dover.

The Toledo Bee has moved into a bran new hive of elegant exterior and convenient interior. There are precious few drones in it, too.—Elyria Democrat.

The Toledo Bee issued a 24-page paper on Saturday last. It was a piece of enterprise seldom attempted in the Future Great, and was a master stroke for that wide-awake paper.—Napoleon Northwest.

The Toledo Bee, one of the most enterprising newspapers in Ohio, recently moved into its new hive, which is one of the finest six-story buildings in the city. It celebrated the event last Saturday by issuing an edition of 24 pages, full of excellent reading matter and attractive advertisements. The Bee is a hummer.—Holmes County Farmer.

The spirit of progressiveness which plainly permeates everything in connection with that well conducted newspaper the Toledo Bee, is largely seen by the new printing and publishing building it has erected. The Bee's new hive is on a most palatial plan and well calculated in every direction to make it buzz louder and longer than ever. The completion of the new offices was celebrated by the issuance of a mammoth edition of the paper upon which all connected and the city of its birth are to be highly congratulated.—Lancaster Eagle.

We remember when the first copy of the Toledo Bee was issued about fifteen years ago. It was a little five column folio sheet and looked like it was printed with apple butter. It is now the most complete evening paper in Ohio, with typesetting machines, perfecting presses, stereotyping department and everything usually connected with a first-class modern city paper. And what is more, it has just moved into a magnificent building erected specially for the purpose. The Bee is a great paper.—Bucyrus Forum.

Last Saturday's Toledo Bee contained 24 pages of solid democracy. The Bee is a great paper in all the word implies, journalistically and politically.—Mansfield Shield and Banner.

The Toledo Bee of Saturday puts forth a 24 page edition, with a cut of its magnificent new building, five stories high and a tower, with inside views of the various offices; also a cut of its new Clause perfecting press, capable of 24,000 copies per hour. We congratulate the Bee on the magnificence of its munificence. The Bee is certainly a great newspaper, one of the best in the country, and it teaches the true faith. We rejoice that it is on the broad road to fame and fortune.—Canton News-Democrat.

Saturday night's Toledo Bee consisted of 24 pages, mainly illustrative of that buzzer's new hive. We somehow like the Bee and its operators, although abhorring its political predilections. We like it because it is so different from that evening contemporary which Bro. Oblinger so ironically termed in years agone, the facile princeps of Toledo journalism. The Bee is honest in its convictions and reflects public sentiment in a fair manner—so distinctively different from that other journal which is run solely to gratify the personal pique of its proprietor. To tell what sort of a paper it is—and that's what's what has enabled it to build for itself one of the finest newspaper offices in all the country. May the Bee's stinger never lack pith.—Bowling Green Sentinel.

The Toledo Bee issued a mammoth holiday paper on Saturday last. The paper was full of choice reading and well prepared advertising. One of the interesting features of the publication was an account of the Bee's new hive, showing where and how the great paper is published. The Bee is a great paper and no mistake. May it buzz loud and long.—Fremont News.

The Toledo Bee, one of the ablest democratic papers in the country, is certainly a metropolitan paper, both in enterprise and the result of enterprise, the latter fact showing that Toledo appreciates the Bee or else it could not have built a hive that is an ornament to the city as well as a monument to enterprise. The new building is stone, of beautiful architecture and convenient throughout for the purpose it was constructed. Saturday's edition of the Bee contains pictures of the building and the many apartments in it, with letter press description. Not only this, the same paper contains a vast space filled with advertisements of live merchants who are reaching out for trade. But this advertising continues all through, and acronstrates for the new Bee Hive and the magnificent paper that the Bee ever is.—Steubenville Gazette.

THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT.

It Is Actively Alive in This City of Ours To-day.

Rain and mud are not keeping shoppers indoors this last day before Christmas, and tokens of good wishes are passing from giver to recipient not alone among those who can repay in kind. Many kind hearts remember to-day Toledo's benevolent institutions and societies, and those who have remember those who have not. The Humane society is one of the mediums through which these gifts are passing. The ladies of the board of managers of the Toledo Boys' home are to-day in the good things for the dinner to which the boys will sit down to-morrow. The ladies of the Day nursery are seeing that there shall be a Christmas dinner there. Those among the many who feel the Christmas spirit to-day, the spirit of Tiny Tim when he said "God bless us every one," the spirit of the Master when He said, "All ye are brethren."

NEWARK NEWS.

Railroad Wreck—Veteran Dead.

Newark, O., Dec. 24.—The second section of freight No. 92 was wrecked at Franklin yesterday. A truck broke on a refrigerator car, derailing six cars and tearing up a portion of the track for three-quarters of a mile. Two tramps were hurled into the creek 90 feet away, and are probably fatally injured.

James Young, a veteran soldier of the late war, and a cripple for some time from injuries, died at his home in the sixty-fourth year of his age. He leaves a wife and four children. Only a short time ago he was granted an arrearage of pension.

BAD MEN IN JAIL.

Mansfield, O., Dec. 24.—Thos. Bloor, one of the three young men arrested on suspicion of committing the burglary at the residence of Phoebe Wise, near the Ohio Reformatory last Friday night, has confessed, implicating himself. "Tip" Tyler, who is also under arrest, and Henry Zweifel, the ringleader, who took them and fled before the arrest of the others. Ike Hartman, who was arrested at the same time, was released, there being no evidence against him.

DEATH AT WABASH.

Wabash, Ind., Dec. 24.—Wm. Shriver, 70 years old, nearly all his life a citizen of Wabash, died from the effects of paralysis and softening of the brain.

ASHORE IN A FOG.

A Big Steamer Loses Her Way and Is Wrecked—Passengers Saved.

London, Dec. 23.—A dispatch received here says the Danish steamship Island, of the Thingvalla line, is ashore at Niddingen on the coast of Sweden. The Island, it appears, went ashore in a fog. All the passengers were safely landed.

She is of 1,900 tons, sailed from New York December 5 for Christiansend, Copenhagen and Stettin, and carried 11 saloon passengers, 41 second-class and 200 steerage. She is leaking, but tugs have been sent to her assistance, and it is expected that she will be hauled off within 24 hours.

PENNOYER ONCE MORE.

He Is the Presidential Ticket Marker of the Day.

Portland, Ore., Dec. 24.—Gov. Pennoyer has permitted the publication of another oracular utterance upon topics of national importance. He says: "I would make the democratic ticket in the next presidential campaign Flower and Bland. That would make the strongest combination we could put in the field."

Commenting on the above, the Oregonian will say: "A few more utterances like this and the people will arise in their power and place Oregon's governor himself in the highest office in the gift of the nation."

ANTE-CHRISTMAS OBSERVATIONS

We offer sympathy to our country cousins who simply can't go to town, for the mud. Here's hoping that every state in the union will squander less money in political squabbles and needless indulgences and build good stone roads in every direction. 'Twould be the great achievement of the century.

Prettier and daintier things seem to be put upon the counters every year. The shop windows are bits of fairy land with their holly leaves and berries on snow white background and all artistic things aranged in the most pleasing manner. Every year handsomer home art work is placed on sale.

An appreciative word should be said for the patient tired shop clerks, both men and women. With unfailing good nature, as a rule, they meet the querulous, the undecided and the bothersome customer with the same grace they do the prompt and considerate ones. They seem to realize that to step into the midst of so bewildering a display, quite takes the infrequent shopper off her feet. She forgets what was on her list, forgets she has a list at all, and enjoys the novelties, like the grown-up child in the midst of new things. Of course she is unwittingly troublesome. Her heart is large, her purse may be light and she be a passionate lover of beautiful things. An unfortunate, everyday combination, yet she can revel in the sight of them and that is all the possessor can do. There's a bit of comfort in that.

And the post-office clerks and the carriers. All day long and into the night weighing, stamping, sorting, over and over again. (It revives one's faith in humanity to see the heaped-up expressions of good-will.) And the faces at the window—one after another in panoramic rapidity—what a study but the busy worker has no time for analysis; it is the momentary impression only that he gets.

The pig is there now and then; he who crowds in ahead of those who await their turn and jams his packages and his demands in first when he came last. The clerk if he sees it, properly ignores him and says "you are next, I believe," to the one whom the pig crowded back, and the pig has to wait. He is mad enough to squeal but evolution has done something for him and he forbears.

The nearest veritable approach to Santa Claus, is the overloaded carrier as he makes his rounds. Does it ever occur to you what expressions of delight greet him as he comes and goes thus laden? With all the burden bearing there must be considerable pleasure in the little snatches of the real-life drama he gets as he passes from house to house. If the petition that the government pension the leter carriers were to be passed now, it would reach all the way from anywhere to Washington.

"God bless us, every one," said Tiny Tim. "Heaven help and keep us all," said a later-day philosopher and poet. Amen and amen, says the Bee scribe.

CAN'T DANCE FOR CHARITY.

The Ministers of Sedalia Denounce a Ball To Be Given to Aid a Hospital.

Sedalia, Mo., Dec. 24.—There promises to be fun in this city before long, and the harbinger of the distant storm is here now. The trouble is caused by the objection of the various ministers of the city to a proposed charity ball. Recently a society, numbering among its members many of the best ladies of the city, was organized for the purpose of building a charity hospital. To further this end preparations were made for a grand ball to be given at the opera house on New Year's Eve.

Several ministers denounced the wicked and unheard-of innovation in this moral town, and the Ministers' alliance, composed of about two-thirds of all the preachers of the city, met and sustained the action. Next Sunday all the ministers will preach against it from the pulpit and request their flocks to stay at home and not lend either their presence or support to the "sinful proceeding."

Ladies having the arrangements in charge say the ball will be given. Developments are anxiously awaited, and society is on the qui vive for the result of the conflict.

FIRE BUGS AT TIFFIN.

Tiffin, Dec. 24.—(Special)—An unsuccessful attempt was made at an early hour yesterday morning to burn the Van Nest carriage works, located in the central portion of this city. The fire was discovered and extinguished by the department before it was found that the entire interior of the building had been saturated with kerosene and strewn with inflammable material.

A score of costly carriages were covered with oil, and the only damage done was to these vehicles, which were but slightly burned.

The insurance companies have commenced an investigation, and will offer a reward for the arrest and conviction of the perpetrators.

The organization will have subordinate rulings throughout the country. The incorporators are Messrs. S. W. White, F. W. Pierce, E. H. Edick, G. H. Gilbert, E. J. Holmden, John Meyer, C. B. Humiston and M. Ortie.

Speaker Crisp's Committees Were a Surprise.

Precedents Had to Give Way to Expediency.

Many New Faces Appear in Prominent Places, While Many Old Ones Have Been Relegated to Obscurity.

Washington, Dec. 24.—The prediction that Speaker Crisp in the make-up of his committees would do violence to the rule of precedence as established by years of practice was verified by the list as announced.

In the first committee elections the rule is observed. Representative O'Ferrall of Virginia, who was second on the minority to Mr. Crisp himself last congress, goes to the head. Nils of Wisconsin is the first minority member, being the first among survivors on that side.

The committee on ways and means is badly shaken up, as was expected. Mr. Springer, who has not heretofore been connected with the committee at all, is chairman, and Mr. McMillin holds the second place, his relative position on the minority last congress. Mr. Turner is retained, but the other members of the majority—Wilson, Montgomery, Whiting, Shively, Stevens, Cochran and Bryan—are all new men. Messrs. Reed, Burrows, McKenna and Payne have served before, and Dalzell takes Payne's place. Mr. Dingley is transferred to the committee on appropriations.

Instead of promoting Mr. Forney, who headed the minority in the last congress, Speaker Crisp has made Mr. Holman chairman of the committee on appropriations, with Mr. Forney second. All other democrats are retained, and C. R. Breckenridge, Compton and O'Neill of Massachusetts added. Livingston represents the alliance membership. The new republican members are Bingham, Dingley and Grout. Belden has been dropped.

Mr. Outhwaite of Ohio is a notable example of the appointment of a chairman from outside the membership of the committees. He is placed at the head of military affairs and loses his place on the elections committee. Gen. Wheeler of Alabama, the ranking member of the old committee, second on the list.

David B. Culberson of Texas goes to the head of the judiciary, being the ranking member of the old minority, while ex-Chairman E. B. Taylor of Ohio heads the minority this year. Mr. Oates of Alabama is second and Bynum of Indiana third. This is the best place Bynum gets. Had Mills been elected speaker he would probably have been chairman of ways and means.

Henry Bacon of New York, a new man, gets the chairmanship of the important committee on banking and currency, instead of Covert of New York, who did not vote for Crisp.

Coinage, weights and measures, as was expected, will be presided over by Richard P. Bland and the members of the committee indicates a tender treatment of free coinage of silver that the committees of last congress did not show.

Mr. Mills is at the head of the committee on ways and means for foreign commerce. Charles S. Baker of New York was the chairman of the committee on commerce, its predecessor in the last congress.

Free Coinage.

An inquiry into the records of the members of the house committee on coinage, weights and measures show by past utterances or votes, in or out of congress, eight out of the 13 members of the committee have declared in favor of free coinage, while four of the other members have outspoken against free coinage, and the fourth is by his friends to be unquestionably against free coinage, though his record is unknown, he not having been in congress.

The members in favor of free coinage are Messrs. Bland, of Missouri; Williams, of Illinois; Kilgore, of Texas; Robertson, of Louisiana; Pierce, of Tennessee; Epps, of Virginia; McKeighan, of Nebraska, and Bartine, of Nevada. Those opposed are Messrs. Tracey, of New York; Williams, of Massachusetts; Taylor, of Illinois, and Stone, of Pennsylvania.

Of the free coinage members Messrs. Bland, Williams, of Illinois; Kilgore, Robertson, Pierce, of Tennessee, and Bartine were in the last congress and recorded themselves as in favor of the passage of the free coinage bill. Of the new free coinage members, Mr. Epps, of Virginia, was elected on a free coinage platform; Mr. McKeighan comes here as an independent elected largely by alliance votes and committed to free coinage of silver. Of the anti-free coinage members of the committee, Messrs. Tracey and Taylor, of Illinois, were in the last congress—and as members of the committee worked and voted against free silver. Mr. Williams, of Massachusetts, who though in the present congress, was not given an opportunity to serve on his old committee. Mr. Williams, like his predecessor, however, is a strong anti-free silver man. The fourth man placed in the anti-free coinage list is Mr. Stone, of Pennsylvania. Mr. Stone was not in the last congress. He is not in the city, but his friends say he is undoubtedly against free silver.

Mr. Johnson, of North Dakota, the fifth man in the anti-free coinage list, was not in the last congress.

Mr. Wilcox, of Connecticut, is one of the democratic voting members of the committee in the last congress, who was re-elected, but who is not on the committee this time. He voted against free coinage. Mr. Vaux, of Pennsylvania, was not re-elected, and Mr. Joseph, of New Mexico, being a delegate, has no vote.

The silver men are very well pleased with the constitution of the coinage committee, and regard it as significant of the speaker's purpose to afford an opportunity for the passage of a free coinage measure.

The chairman, Mr. Bland, is the most pronounced democratic advocate of silver in the house. Silver men strongly urged upon the speaker the selection of Mr. Bartine, of Nevada, as the leader of the republican minority on the committee, because of his efforts last congress in behalf of free coinage, and regard the fact that Mr. Bartine heads the list of republican members as another indication of the speaker's friendliness toward a liberal silver policy. One of the silver men on the committee said this afternoon that he had heard some intimations that Mr. Johnson, of North Dakota, was not to be classed as a free coinage man, but, though without positive information on the subject, he expressed the belief that Mr. Johnson was favorable to free silver. Mr. Johnson himself could not be found.

"WONDER WHAT I'M GOING TO GET?"

"Wonder what I'm going to get?"
This is what begins to fret
All the little girls and boys
When they think of Christmas toys.
Long before the day is near
We are always sure to hear
From each happy household pet—
"Wonder what I'm going to get?"

Hangs around the house all day:
Doesn't seem to want to play;
Writes, with dirty little paws,
Begging notes to Santa Claus;
Hangs his stockings on a chair
So's to get the biggest pair;
By this question always met—
"Wonder what I'm going to get?"

Christmas day is here at last,
And our troubles now are past.
Santa Claus came down last night,
Spreading round him fresh delight.
With a twinkle in his eye,
"There," said he, "sleep on, young fry;
No more by the thought beset
As to what you're going to get."

Up the chimney quick he goes,
Softly rubs his ruddy nose;
Yet methinks I hear him sigh
As he nods a last good-by,
And methinks I hear him say
Ere he vanishes away,
Say with just the least regret—
"Wonder what I'm going to get?"

Recent delicate experiments with kites show that the amount of electricity in the air is proportionate to the height above the earth.

Reliable authorities say that the death penalty is always inflicted in Siam on every one who is heard to mention the king's name.

A fur establishment in Chicago has just completed for a feminine resident an ulster in which are 125 mink skins and 350 tails.

Fish swallow their food whole because they are obliged to keep continually opening and closing the mouth for the purpose of respiration.

An extensive find of rich deposits of aluminium was made last week in the San Mateo mountains about forty miles west of Albuquerque.

The largest chicken ranch in the world is said to be on an island in Bellingham bay, Puget Sound. Its owner claims to have 100,000 fowl.

It is stated that in 1890 the number of persons killed in India by snakes was 21,412, while the number of snakes slaughtered was 510,659.

The makers of timekeepers are usually ingenious persons. A Nuremberg watch in the form of an acorn has a tiny pistol which serves as an alarm.

Kite-flying is a favorite amusement in Corea and here, as in India, each one tries to cut with the string of his kite that of some other person.

Salton lake, the great inland sea of Arizona which was formed by the overflowing of the Colorado river last summer, is reported to be rapidly drying up.

There are 30,000 locomotives in the United States, being one to every five miles of railroad, and 1,100,000 cars of all kinds, of which 27,000 are passenger coaches.

Miss West, of Unionville, O., went out shooting the other day. She brought back fourteen quail, four rabbits and the tip of the bird-dog's tail—shot off accidentally.

The bog of Allen, Ireland, is the largest turfe-drained bog, covering nearly a quarter of a million acres. The heating power of peat is about half that of coal, and it forms a very valuable article to the poor Irish peasant.

February in 1900 will not contain 29 days, although it will be leap year. February in 1700 also contained 28 days. There is a slight error in the Gregorian calendar, but it will only amount to one day in 3,325 years.

Gen. Sherman took a large interest in the education and advancement of Kit Carson's son, who is now charged with murder, but all his kindly offices were thrown away. He couldn't make a peach pie out of a crab apple.

Australian butterflies bathe. One will alight close to the water, into which it backs until the whole body is submerged, the forelegs alone retaining their hold on dry land. In a moment it will fly away, apparently refreshed.

Bloodhounds derive their name from the possession of a peculiar power of scenting the blood of a wounded animal, so that if once put upon the trail they will hunt the quarry through thick and thin, and seldom if ever, deviate from their course.

Crow Island passage, Grand Manan, was literally choked with a school of mackerel one day recently, and the native fishermen took 2,000 barrels. At Bar Harbor more than $6,000 worth of mackerel have been taken from the weirs this season.

An English manufacturer while examining the texture and quality of some bandages found on a mummy was astonished to ascertain that the arrangement of the threads was precisely like that which he had patented a few months before on the supposition that it was an independent invention.

A New York woman entered her house and found a young man coming down the stairs. She burst out with: "Who are you? What are you doing here? You're a thief." "Is that so?" inquired the young man, as cool as possible. "Well, why don't you call the police?" Then he brushed by her and ran.

A man in Lincoln county, Maine, who dislikes too much company, has removed the elevated walk by which his front door was reached, and goes in by means of a ladder at the back, drawing the ladder in after him. He has also posted this sign: "No callers wanted on the Sabbath. It is the Lord's day—a day of rest."

Mrs. Henrietta Dudley, a town pensioner of New Haven, Conn., died on Tuesday, after years of suffering, from elephantiasis, a disease of the skin. Her skin was an inch thick and very hard. She was known as the ossified woman. She was examined by six doctors in 1847, and was told that she would not live a year. She was sixty-seven years old.

The proper way to wrap and pack oranges is to wrap them tightly, twist the paper around the stem, and put them in the box with the bottom layer stems up and all the other layers stems down. That is not done by most wrappers and packers, who merely fold the papers beneath the orange, so that when it is taken from the box the wrapper drops off. A champion packer has packed in 10 hours 83 boxes of oranges, 226 to the box, or 18,750 oranges.

American visitors in England are often surprised to find unfamiliar names of Englishmen current there as the inventors of what they had always been accustomed to regard as the creation of American brains. It is not Cyrus Field's name that is spoken there in connection with the Atlantic cables, nor Singer's, with the sewing machine. In fact, few things are ever seen labelled "American" in London shops, no matter what their origin may have been, that are not of the cheapest and often most inferior description.

It is reported from Wilna, Russia, that anonymous letters from Vienna denounced the Jews of the town of Ehmelnik as a pack of nihilists. The governor ordered an inquiry, with the result that in the houses of several Israelites photographs of Baron Hirsch were discovered with the inscription, "Emperor of the Jews." Further investigation, however, proved that the photographs came from Vienna and were placed in the homes of the Jewish families by unknown hands. The suspected Jews were promptly set at liberty.

A countryman in Tennessee, where forests and game are plenty, found that his boys, who all have a gun apiece, became short of percussion caps a few days ago, and the first thing he knew they were shooting with match heads as a substitute. How many boxes of matches he had lost in that way he did not say but he found they fired as clear as the cap itself. It is said that necessity is the mother of invention. Here is a chance for some man to make a fortune by getting out a "new patent." All that is necessary is to adapt the gunlock to the "match head."

Dr. S. B. Hartman—In the early part of last winter I contracted a severe cold, attended with a bad cough; then, being exposed to the late flood, added to my disability. I have taken your Pe-ru-na with best results. My cough has entirely left, soreness is gone, and am increasing in flesh. T. J. EWING.

Dr. S. B. Hartman & Co., Columbus, O.—Sirs: I used several bottles of Pe-ru-na; it cured my cough. My throat and lungs were choked up with phlegm and I had suffered greatly.
MARGARET WAGNER.
Sulphur Springs, Tex., Feb. 18, 1891.

I hereby certify that I was cured of a very severe cough by one bottle of Pe-ru-na, after having used two prescriptions from my family physician and one other cough remedy to no advantage.
E. R. McKINNEY.

To stop a cough in any other way than to check the secretions is as foolish as it is harmful. The true cough medicine is the one that cures the congested membranes, and thus stops the discharges, when the cough ceases of its own accord. Anything that will prevent the formation of the irritating secretions will permanently cure a cough, but any cough medicine that simply quiets the cough will not only fail to be of any lasting benefit but do great harm by lulling the sensitiveness of the nerves that ought to be constantly on the guard. It is to be regretted that most cough medicines have the latter effect. The operation of a cough medicine that simply stops the cough without removing the cause is much quicker, sometimes the first dose stopping it entirely. Hence the temporary popularity of such harmful medicines.

The cough medicine that has been found always reliable to remove the cause, and thus stop the cough, is Pe-ru-na. It contains no opium or narcotic of any kind, and is a sure cure for all kinds of coughs. Pe-ru-na operates directly to heal the congested or inflamed mucous membranes of the air-passages and lungs. Pe-ru-na does not work against nature's efforts, but assists nature. A wineglassful of Pe-ru-na in hot water before going to bed will never fail to break up a cold. A tablespoonful before each meal and at bedtime will cure a winter cough permanently and quickly. Two ounces of rock candy added to one bottle of Pe-ru-na and taken as above is the best treatment in existence for a common cough, the cough of consumption and chronic bronchitis, according to the testimony of thousands of patients scattered all over the length and breadth of the United States. Multitudes have relied on Peruna so long to cure coughs and all cases of colds, influenza, hay fever, bronchitis, catarrh and consumption, with such good results that they have discarded all other treatment.

For treatise on catarrh, coughs, colds, consumption, and all climatic diseases of winter, send for Family Physician No. 2. Address Peruna Drug Manufacturing company, Columbus, Ohio.

ABOUT MEXICAN LIFE.

Editors Sent to Jail on Slight Charges.

Famine's Gaunt Finger Beckoning for Aid.

Two Rival Lovers Meet in a Cathedral and Cut Each Other to Death Before the Awe-Stricken People.

New York, Dec. 24.—A correspondent at the City of Mexico sends the following budget of news from the Mexican capital: Should this government maintain its present attitude towards the "free and untrammelled" press of this republic, it is not wholly improbable that the entire independent contingent of the newspaper fraternity here will spend the approaching holidays behind prison bars.

Already a number are in jail, and the search for the remainder is suggestive of those periodical "roundups," at which a ranchero gathers into one great fold all his cattle that have scattered themselves over the country. The authorities in this country are very solicitous for the welfare of newspaper editors. Their greatest care is to see that they do not overwork themselves, and to this end they relieve them from the trouble of editing their papers. Frequently the authorities prepare the articles for publication, and the editor must not think of complaining.

The freedom of the press would be highly amusing if it were not really tragic. Many of the best newspaper men have spent the greater part of their professional career in prison and seem fated to die there. The mention of a name in anything but a complimentary style may mean six months' imprisonment should the person mentioned happen to be a friend or merely an acquaintance of any of the political "bosses."

Senor Gregorio Cruz, editor of the Faro Veracruzana, a daily paper published in Vera Cruz, has just found this out to his sorrow. A few days ago his paper contained an article which did not speak in the highest terms of a friend of one of the political leaders of Vera Cruz. He was arrested and his paper was suppressed.

A long period in jail will probably be his fate.

Senor Daniel Cabrera is another newspaper man of the independent class who has received attention from the government. His paper, an illustrated satirical one, contained a caricature of President Diaz in an issue about six months ago. Since then he has been in jail serving an indefinite sentence.

The editor of the Mexican Home Journal is also in jail, and has for company a number of his associates.

One of the most brutal of impromptu duels, so common among the lawless classes here, was fought last night within the pale of the cathedral at Cordoba and was witnessed by hundreds of people, who had assembled in the edifice. The weapons were long knives. The combatants were young men, sons of two of the wealthiest and best-known families in the state of Vera Cruz. One of them, Gomez, was the son of an extensive wholesale butcher and owner of the plaza wherein the weekly bull-fights are conducted.

The other, Juan Martinez, was the son of a retired merchant. Both men were in love with the same girl, the former seeming to be the favorite. He and the girl attended part of the service at the cathedral and were leaving the edifice when met by Martinez, who immediately attacked Gomez.

The service was interrupted while the two men fought, their cries of agony mingling with the sacred music of the choristers. Martinez was completely disemboweled. He died immediately. Gomez' head was almost severed from his body, but he lingered for several hours. The noise of the fight attracted a crowd of several hundred persons, who stood watching the battle, no one interfering until the two men lay dying.

The city prison and the mayor's office were but a single block away across the park, but the police permitted the fight to continue to the end. Both men were extremely popular in the city.

The famine among the poor in the interior districts continues, but as yet no steps have been taken by the government to relieve the distress. The government of the state of Chihuahua has appropriated $10,000 and appointed a commission to invest the amount in seeds to retail at cost price to the poor, so that the next crop may be provided for. Senor Carlos Zuloago, of Chihuahua, has given $5,000 to be invested in corn for free distribution among the starving.

The grip is raging in the capital and in the large cities of neighboring states. At Oaxaca several deaths have occurred, and all steps to check the spread of the malady have been futile. The health authorities are nonplussed and don't know how to act.

Private letters from Mexico received by New York merchants with Mexican connections state that the extent of the famine throughout Mexico has been underestimated. The condition of the poor is deplorable. There is not enough food in the country to give one meal in two days to the starving peasants. The wealthy men of the country have gathered in all the available stores and are holding them for their own use. To add to the horror of the situation, yellow fever has broken out in Vera Cruz and in Cordoba. The weather is warm and the condition of the streets bad.

TROUBLE ON THE BORDER.

Mexican Marauders Causing Alarm.

They Are Committing Depredations on Both Sides of the Line with Troops Close on Their Heels.

Brownsville, Tex., Dec. 24.—It is reported from up river that another band of the so-called revolutionists were trailed and pursued by United States troops, and a number of them crossed the river into Mexico.

That there was a considerable number of them is evidenced by finding 31 fires in one camp, and the remains of six beeves that had been slaughtered for food. There are rumors of other parties at various points along the river between Fort Ringgold and Laredo.

It is now stated as certain that these parties above Ringgold were to cross the river into Mexico to draw the Mexican troops from Camargo and vicinity, while the gang that was so gallantly attacked and routed by Capt. Burke and Lieut. Hayes with less than a fourth of their number of men, were to cross at La Gruella and sack the town of Cabargo.

It is said that Lieut. Bazan, late of the Mexican army, was deserted after the murder of his brother by Gen. Garcia's orders as a suspected revolutionist, is with one of these parties. Nothing can be done with the handful of men stationed at these posts. Garcia openly defies the military and threatens to capture Fort Ringgold to obtain supplies.

A special from San Antonia, Texas, says: Gen. David Stanley has ordered two troops of cavalry from the military post here to the scene of the troubles that are being had with the revolutionists on the Rio Grande border. They will leave here by special train commanded by Lieuts. W. D. Beach and John Knight.

A dispatch was received late yesterday afternoon by Assistant Adjutant General Martin, of this military department, from Captain John G. Bourke, giving an official report of the engagement which he had with the Mexican revolutionists yesterday. The following dispatch was received by Gen. Stanley from Captain Bourke this evening. It is as follows:

"A courier just in from Carriso reports that the Garza men scattered when pursued. Capt. Hardie reports that the revolutionists will attack Mier, but that is a bluff. They would have taken Camargo Tuesday morning had we not attacked them at Retinal Springs. They are concentrated in Encinal county, Texas, hoping to draw all the troops away from Laredo so that they can join Sandoval in the mountains of Coahuila. I have given orders to my men to kill on sight any of Garza's men found prowling over the country in arms."

Gen. Stanley has received a dispatch from President Diaz complimenting the United States army officers for the efforts they have made to put down the organization of revolutionists against Mexico on this side of the river.

SNOW STORM COMING.

The Temperature to Fall in the Next Few Hours.

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 24.—Last night's reports indicate that it is snowing over a wide area in the northwest, extending from Battleford, Northwest Territory, southward to Miles City, Mont., and eastward to Grand Rapids, Minn. An average fall in temperature of 25 degrees is predicted for the next 24 hours.

RUSHING NAVAL WORK.

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 24.—Special orders have been received at the navy yard to rush the United States ship Newark, and men are working night and day on her. She is to get away by the 27th or 28th at the furthest, and will go south.

The government has just completed a contract with the Thomson-Houston company to erect an electric light plant at the yard, and work will be began at once upon it. The yards, shops and officers' quarters will be lighted by the plant.

SAFE BLOWERS AT WORK.

Eaton, O., Dec. 24.—Great excitement prevails here because of the discovery that a gang of safe blowers had visited the town and gone through four safes.

The safes of Musselman's grain house, John Glick's grain house, Conger's grain house and Cotterman & Bonners, millers, were blown open.

BELLEVUE WEDDING.

Bellevue, O., Dec. 24.—(Special)—Miss Ida Marie Byrnes was married last night to D. B. Carpenter, of Helena, Mont.

HE WAS A GLEANER.

A Preacher Who Was Quite a Thief.

His Room Filled With Stolen Church Property.

He Was Eccentric and Had a Strange Desire to Steal Bibles, Hymn Books, Chalices, Candlesticks and Such.

New York, Dec. 24.—On the door of a second-floor room in the tenement No. 431 East Seventeenth street there has been nailed for about a year a tin plate with the inscription: Rev. J. Weih, German Pastor, office hours 9-12 a. m.; 7-9 p. m.

Mrs. Bock, the landlady, hasn't curiosity, and so long as she got her rent she didn' bother about the Rev. Weih. He came and went as he pleased and the landlady did not even get a glimpse into his room, for he attended to the chamber work himself and always locked the door when he went out.

Sometimes he appeared in a clerical cap and gown, which gave him a real sacerdotal appearance, and the other lodgers thought that he was indeed a minister. They agreed, though, that he was very eccentric.

At first Mr. Weih occupied only one room, but when the lodgers in the adjoining one left he took that also.

Mrs. Bock probably never would have known what the apartments of her eccentric lodger contained had it not been for the police.

She had never asked him anything about himself, and even didn't know with what church he was connected or with what denomination. No one else did, either.

It all came out, and the mystery of Rev. J. Weih was explained through the arrest of a man in Hoboken.

A little over a week ago Mrs. Bock's lodger disappeared, and a few days later she received a postal card from Hoboken saying that the writer was in jail there for shooting a man, and asking that his things be taken out of his rooms and placed in the cellar for safe keeping.

A little later that day she received a Hoboken newspaper with the account of the arrest of Frederick Schneider, marked so as to catch her eye.

The paper said Schneider had been arrested for stealing books from the German Methodist church on Garden street. He was carrying them in a bag to the ferry when Policeman Hammond arrested him. He was taken to jail and confessed. He claimed that some one else had persuaded him.

Mrs. Bock put on her thinking cap, and after a while concluded to look into the Rev. Mr. J. Weih's room. What she saw there so astounded her that she closed the door quickly and sent for the police.

Even the police were amazed. Trunks, boxes and bundles were piled along the walls of the two rooms, and on the tables and the walls were all sorts of things. Three altars were erected against the walls—one for Roman Catholic, one for Protestant and one for Jewish worship. Chalices, pitchers, vases, Bibles and hymn books were piled on the altars, and above and around them were Sunday school banners and mottoes in profusion. The rooms were almost jammed with the paraphernalia of churches and Sunday schools of many creeds and many nationalities.

Verily, the Rev. Mr. J. Weih had been a gleaner in church vineyards. All was fish that came to his net. Costly silver vessels used in the celebration of the mass and worthless scrans of Sunday school bizzarry were alike welcome in that marvellous collection. Here is a partial inventory:

Three silver plate pitchers, five chalices, or goblets, three pairs of altar candlesticks, likewise of silver, five silver card plates, three call bells, four napkin rings, 18 plated spoons, three forks, two small hourglasses, two microscopes, three crucifixes, two gilt chains, two pawn tickets, a seal ring, a superintendent's gavel, two rebuke Bibles, one bearing the inscription showing that it belonged to the Baptist mission Sunday school, of Hoboken, a stamp of seal with the imprint of the "Mission of the Twelve Apostles," two boxes of drawing instruments, a needle case, a plush bound album, a writing case, poor box, loads of banners, rugs, brocade portiers, curtains, little iron safes, table covers and table covers.

How the Rev. J. Weih contrived to get all the stuff into his rooms puzzles Mrs. Bock. No one had ever seen him bring anything to the house, yet it must have taken him months and months to accumulate that variety and quantity of church goods.

NORTH DAKOTA ALLIANCE.

It Has Convened in Secret Session.

A Newspaper to be Located at Grand Forks No Doubling Up with Political Parties.

Grand Forks, N. D., Dec. 24.—The North Dakota state alliance convened in secret session last evening. The new alliance paper will be established probably at Grand Forks. The project for erecting terminal elevators at Duluth and West Superior for storing grain met with favor. The alliance took no action looking toward joining the people's party. President Shortridge says: "The alliance will not be used to further any political schemes whatever."

At an informal meeting of the alliance men held after adjournment it was agreed that delegates should be sent to represent North Dakota at the national convention of the people's party at St. Louis in February.

INDIAN DAYS AND TROUBLES

Interesting Stories of the Great West

Beginning as Far Back as 1765—No. 1, Daniel Boone—Some Heretofore Untold Adventures of His.

By Dr. H. Scott.

The name of Daniel Boone, as one of the boldest, most fearless and reckless adventurers of the wilderness, is known throughout the civilized world, and yet there is perhaps scarcely one reader in five hundred of the present day who has even a partial knowledge of his private life, his bold adventures, or the date of his first adventure into what is now the state of Kentucky.

Daniel Boone was a North Carolinian, and seems to have been at least of middle age when he set out on his first expedition of discovery, for it is related of him that his grown-up sons, by the use of their rifles and the cultivation of a few acres, supported the family during his protracted absence. He is spoken of as a man of great physical strength and endurance, wonderful fleetness of foot, social, lively and cheerful temperament, thoroughly familiar with the Indian character; and that a love of nature unspoiled and of wild adventure were his governing propensities.

In May, 1768, or 1769, in company with five other sturdy and daring adventurers, he set out from the door of his rude cabin on the bank of the Yodkin, and on foot, loaded with rifles, powder and bullets, and a few days' rations, moved away in the direction of the Tennessee mountains dimly seen in the far distance, with the intention of exploring the regions beyond, where, so far as known to history, the foot of the Anglo-Saxon race had never trod.

At the end of little over half a month after leaving home they had crossed the mountains and pitched their first tent on the bank of a stream since known as Red river; and there they spent the remainder of the summer. An extract from a record by Boone himself is as follows:

"In this forest, the habitation of beasts of every kind natural to America, we practiced hunting with great success until the 22d of December following."

Up to this time no traces of the proximity of Indians had been discovered. But soon after, Boone and one of his companions named Stewart, having ventured a little further than usual from the camp, were suddenly surprised and taken prisoners by a band of Indians, who after plundering them of all they had, but doing them no personal injury, marched them off in the direction of the Ohio river. The home of the Indians was on the Scioto river, where Chillicothe, O., now stands. To this place the two captives were conducted, carefully guarded.

Both Boone and Stewart had inspired their captors with confidence by their assumed good humor and cheerfulness, so much so that they were allowed to retain their rifles, and even to join in the hunt, the Indians being amused by the unerring certainty with which the magic crack of their guns brought down the game, they being familiar only with the bow and arrow.

On the seventh night after their capture Boone and Stewart made their escape while the savages slept, getting away safely with their rifles and ammunition; and trusting to their fleetness and the darkness of the night, they hoped to place so much distance between themselves and their captors before daylight as to enable them to avoid recapture, for they knew that with the return of light swift feet would be on the trail, when, if retaken, death by torture would be their inevitable doom.

They succeeded in crossing the Ohio river, where, feeling secure for a time, they shot some game on which they breakfasted, and then lay down to rest, and under cover of the second night resumed their flight.

Upon arriving at the site of their camp on the Red river, they found it had been plundered and destroyed. They were in great alarm. Had their four companions been carried away by the savages; or had they become disheartened, and after destroying the camp gone back to the Yodkin? However it may have been, their fate remained forever unknown—they were never subsequently heard of.

Under the discouraging circumstances Boone and Stewart did not, as might have been supposed, abandon their enterprise, but at once sought out a more secluded spot. Subsequently, when they found their stock of ammunition nearly exhausted, and no possible way of replenishing it, two men from Carolina suddenly came upon their camp, having with them a good supply both of powder and balls. One of the men, whose name was Squire, was a brother of Boone.

It does not appear whether the party remained at that spot during the winter; but not many weeks subsequent to the arrival of Squire Boone, Daniel and Stewart were again ambushed by Indians, when the latter was pierced by arrows and fell dead, while the former, after receiving a slight wound, made his escape.

Not long after the Carolinian of recent arrival, and whose name has not been presented, wandered off into the forest and was never again heard of. This left the brothers Boone alone.

On the first day of May following, which I believe was in 1770, their ammunition being nearly exhausted, Squire Boone set off on foot for home, for the purpose of bringing back a supply, leaving Daniel "one all alone by myself." At the end of three months Squire returned, bringing with him two horses well loaded. After spending the winter exploring, on horseback, various portions of the hitherto unexplored wilderness, the brothers set out on their return to the Yodkin, where Daniel found his wife and children as he had left them.

Upon the representations of Mr. Boone a company of emigrants was formed, including Boone's family. It was this company that founded the first permanent settlement in southern Kentucky, at the place since known as Boonsborough. This brief but authentic sketch of the career of Daniel Boone will correct the impressions erroneously entertained by many that he spent a large part of his life as a hermit in the caves of Kentucky.

Boone was subsequently again taken prisoner while engaged in making salt at the Blue Licks, about one hundred miles south of Boonsborough—then Fort Boone—and was, with ten of his men, carried north to Detroit. The men were ransomed by British officers and sent home; but large sums were refused for Boone on account of his strength and bravery.

From Detroit he was brought to one of the small Indian towns on the Little Miami, where he passed through the ceremony of adoption into an Indian family, and was made a chief. The process was begun by pulling every hair from his head except a tuft on the summit, which was to be allowed to grow to a great length, and was to be braided and ornamented with trinkets. This he was told was a mark of honor; and further, that should he fall in battle, it would afford his enemies a facility in removing his scalp; besides showing that it was a chief that had fallen.

During this strange proceeding Boone affected to be well pleased; but his thoughts were with his family at Fort Boone, and of the time when he should make his escape and rejoin them. His success with the rifle surprised the best marksmen among the Indians, who had now been supplied with rifles. He was allowed to go out alone on his hunting expeditions; but powder and balls were dealt out to him by day's allowances.

He was, however, more than a match for the most wily Indian in strategy. He cut his bullets in two, and used half charges of powder. In this way he accumulated a magazine which he hid in a hollow tree. On a bright morning in June he was to go hunting alone, and as he had hitherto proved entirely faithful, no watch on his movements was kept. He knew that his return to the village would not be expected before evening.

He proceeded at once to the hollow tree, and having possessed himself of the reserve ammunition, he set his face towards the south on a bee-line and moved with all the activity he could command. He was a thorough woodsman. He knew he had a day and night the start of the savages, because the trail could not be taken before the morning. Thus he pursued his course through the trackless forest. He could not afford to lose a moment of time. He dared not fire his gun, or kindle a fire. His ration of dried venison for the day must suffice. He rested not a minute, day nor night.

He at length arrived safely on the bank of the Ohio river, which he must cross, for to remain anywhere on the north side he knew full well would be to be recaptured, and to meet death, perhaps in its most fearful form; and many hours he knew could not pass before his pursuers would be upon him. But how to cross the half-mile of surging water did not appear to his mind. The river was flood-high, and carrying drift wood.

Undecided, alarmed, and in great trepidation, he was clambering along the brush-covered margin, when suddenly he came upon a canoe that had drifted in under the hanging limbs. His heart leaped on first beholding it; but he soon found that there was a dangerous hole in its bow, below the water's edge. He, however, succeeded in bailing it, and so far stopping the break as to allow it to float. He took his seat, and with his rifle pushed out into the dangerous flood and paddled across to the Kentucky shore, where he could breathe more freely than he had done during his six months of captivity.

On the fifth day after leaving the Miami town he arrived at Fort Boone, only to find that his wife, despairing of ever seeing him again, had taken her children and returned to North Carolina. He followed; and subsequently moved back to Kentucky. In advanced life he emigrated to Missouri, where he died, but his remains were afterwards returned to Kentucky as their final resting place.

SECRETARY AND OFFICES OF COMPANY.
W. H. MOLLETT, - - 12 Moorgate Street, London, E. C.

All the ordinary (common stock) shares of the company will be allotted to the vendors and others, and none are offered for subscription or sale.

The eight per cent preference shares and £35,000 of the six per cent. debenture bonds are offered to the public for subscription at par, payable twenty-five per cent. thereof on application, and the balance within five days after allotment.

The subscription lists in America will open December 21st at 10 a. m., and close December 28th, 1891, at 3 p. m. Allotments will be made as soon as practicable thereafter. The company reserves the right to reject any or all subscriptions, and to make allotments of less amounts than the amounts applied for. If the whole amount applied for by any applicant be not allotted, the surplus amount paid on deposit will be appropriated toward the sum due on allotment. If no allotment should be made, the deposit will be returned in full.

Prospectuses and subscription forms can be had at the offices of the attorneys and bankers where subscriptions will be received.

The English company will acquire the title to all property, assets and effects of the present prosperous Buckeye Brewing Company, including the good-will and trade-marks of the business. The business has been established for thirty years, and is well and favorably known throughout the state of Ohio.

The progressive character of the business can be judged from the sales of beer during the last five years, which have been as follows:

Year ending August 31:
1886	50,853 Barrels.
1887	56,483 "
1888	61,628 "
1889	63,690 "
1890	63,998 "
1891	(nearly) 74,000 "

The profits likewise show a steady increase year by year. Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Co., of London and New York, Chartered Accountants, have examined the books of the Brewery and certify as follows:

44 Gresham Street.
London, E. C., 27th July, 1891.
Buckeye Brewery.

We have examined the books of this Brewery at Toledo Ohio, U. S. A., for the period of four years ending 1st September, 1890, for the purpose of ascertaining the profits earned during that period. The profits, after charging depreciation, but without charging the salary of the president, were as follows:

Year ending August 31:
1887	$ 74,914
1888	99,742
1889	113,059
1890	134,285

(Signed) PRICE, WATERHOUSE & CO.

Taking the net profits of the business to equal about $130,000 there would be an ample surplus after paying the interest on the bonds and the dividend on the preference shares to provide for expenses of management and the dividends on the ordinary (common stock) shares.

1. To pay interest on the debenture bonds would require $26,352
2. To pay dividends of 8 per cent. on preference shares.. 33,184
3. Leaving an estimated surplus per annum of..... 70,464
$130,000

The directors believe that this very large surplus will increase with the development of the business, and that the future profits will enable the company to declare substantial dividends upon its ordinary (common stock) shares, besides affording ample protection to the holders of the cumulative preference shares against any contingencies of business that can be foreseen.

Mr. Dennis Coghlin and Mr. George E. Pomeroy, of Toledo, who, for five years last past, have had the active management and control of the business, and, as such, have built up the trade to its present large dimensions, have agreed to act as managers of the business on behalf of the English company for the period of five years at the salary of $4,000 per annum, as heretofore paid to them, and such further sum as the company may vote them in each year. Mr. Jacobi has also agreed to act as superintendent for the period of three years at the same salary. The directors are, therefore, confident that the business will be conducted with the energy, ability and integrity that has characterized the management in the past, and that the managers will do their utmost to further develop and increase the business for the benefit of the English company.

The business will be acquired by the English company as of the first day of September, 1891, and all profits made since that date will belong to the new company, less interest on the purchase-money.

The vendor, H. W. Easun, has fixed the price to be paid for the premises, property, assets, effects and good-will at the sum of £260,000 sterling with interest.

A contract has been entered into between H. W. Easun, as vendor, and the company, dated London, December 10, 1891. There are various contracts entered into with reference to guaranteeing the subscription of a portion of the present issue, to which the company is not a party. There are also various contracts connected with the brewery as a going concern, which it is impracticable to specify in detail. As some or all of the above contracts and arrangements may come within the category of contracts referred to in the 38th section of the Companies' Acts, 1867, applications for shares will be received only upon the footing that applicants have notice of such contracts and arrangements and waive the specification herein of the dates and names of the parties thereto, and any further information in regard thereto to which they may be entitled under the provisions of the said section or otherwise.

Applications for preference shares and debentures should be made on the accompanying form, and should be forwarded to the company's attorneys or bankers in Toledo, New York or London, accompanied by a remittance for the amount of the deposit, and, if paid by check, then payable to the order of the attorney or bankers to whom the same may be sent.

London, December 15, 1891.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Current for Produce and Other Articles

Our table herein of receipts and shipments of grain at four Atlantic ports, shows a gain in wheat of 235,000 bu and a gain in corn of 1,496,000 bu, compared with a loss in wheat of 255,000 bu, and a gain in corn of 1,912,000 bu in the previous week.

In the same table the receipts and shipments at eight principal western points show a gain of 2,471,000 bu in wheat, to which add the gain at seaboard points of 235,000 bu, makes an aggregate gain of 2,714,000 bu, compared with gain of 3,339,000 bu in the previous week.

Gain in corn of 555,000 bu, which added to the gain at seaboard points of 1,496,000 bu, makes an aggregate gain of 2,151,000 bu, compared with a gain of 2,673,000 bu in previous week. Gain in oats of 81,000 bu, compared with a loss of 216,000 bu in the previous week.

The Markets.

London wheat and corn markets, holiday character; nothing doing. Liverpool wheat quiet; corn easy, lower.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 717,395 bu., compared with 512,899 bu. on the same day last year.

Argentine Crop.

(Dornbusch, Dec. 11.)

Buenos Ayres, Nov. 18.—A really great crop of wheat is ready for harvest in Santa Fe, and the export surplus will be in excess of any previous year. The area under wheat is greatly increased by high prices and fear of locusts attacking corn, and from every part of the country there is urgent demand for reaping machines and twine, and the accounts are unanimously good as regards quantity. In the north of Santa Fe quality is decidedly inferior, but from Central Argentine districts and some of the western districts very fine samples are expected. In the southern districts of Buenos Ayres the wheat will probably be good—although it is too soon to speak with any certainty—but very much mixed with wild oats. Fine weather for harvest is of unusual importance owing to the great scarcity of labor and it appears that the shipments will be spread over a longer time than usual from want of tonnage.

Corn is coming on very well, favored by fair amount of rain, and the locusts have not appeared in many of the important districts, so there is a chance of an export surplus.

The receipts of grain for four days this week at eight principal western points have been wheat 3,280,000 bus, Corn, 2,907,000 bus. Oats, 1,296,000 bus. Previous week, wheat, 5,044,000 bus. Corn, 3,506,000 bus. Oats 2,061,000 bus. In the week corresponding to this in 1890, wheat, 2,264,000 bus. Corn, 1,625,000 bus. Oats, 1,658,000 bus.

The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were 417,068 bus. of wheat and flour to an aggregate of 520,000 bus., without Philadelphia flour. The export of corn was 135,044 bus and of oats 140,021 bus.

The exports for four days this week at the same port were wheat 1,292,000 bus.; corn 650,000 bus.; oats 531,000 bus. Previous week, wheat 2,880,000 bus.; corn, 757,000 bus.; oats 668,000 bus.

English markets as reported herein are dull and unchanged for wheat and lower for corn.

There is nothing to make record of to-day of the least importance to prices of wheat. The weather is wet and temperature soft. Cold weather is threatened, but it has not yet appeared. This expectation gave the markets a little more firmness, and there is no doubt if a sharp cold spell comes it will start in that it will start prices a little, and an advance on this side will at once be reflected abroad. We must wait until Monday when matters may assume a more decisive shape.

Corn has also been firmer to-day, and December and May both improved a little west. Thirty days of cold weather would move more corn than the markets would want.

Liverpool closed unchanged for wheat and a shade lower for corn.

Paris closed unchanged for wheat to a shade higher.

Berlin closed a shade higher on wheat.

In New York December and May wheat closed at a gain of 1-2. December corn 1-2 lower; May 3-8 higher. December oats 1-2 higher.

In Chicago December wheat closed 3-8 and May 1-4 higher. December corn 5-8 and May 3-8 higher. December oats 3-8 higher.

In Toledo,—The business in wheat continues light and without special feature, except dullness. Trading was limited and in coincidence with the season. Prices gained 3-8c at the close over that of yesterday. May opened at $1.01 1-4 and sold up to 3-4c, closing at $1.01 3-8c. Cash wheat was as dull as usual, but the limited sales brought 1-2c more than yesterday's closing market. No. 2 soft sold at 95 1-2, No. 1 white at 94c, No. 2 at 92 1-2c. Corn was about steady; No. 2 at 41c, No. 3 at 38 1-2c, No. 4 at 36 1-2c, No. 2 yellow at 41 1-2c, No. 3 yellow at 41c. Oats—No. 3 white at 34 1-2c. Rye—No. 3 at 87c. Dressed hogs at $4.50.

Cloverseed—Unchanged and very little business reported; prime for cash at $5.40, February $5.45 bid, No. 2 at $5.25.

GRABBED A WAD.

A Penitentiary Bird on His Way Back to Prison.

Mike Malony, an old penitentiary bird who was released from the state's prison a few months ago after a 12 year term for gouging a man's eye out in Toledo, is again in jail and in a fair way to return to prison.

Last night he was "making the rounds" with a man named John Guntsenberger, from Berea. While in Major's saloon on St. Clair street Guntsenberger displayed a $20 bill and a $5 bill, but just as he was about to return them to his pocket Malony grabbed the money and ran out the door. The matter was at once reported to the police, and after a long hunt Malony was arrested in Wyek's hotel by Detectives Duffy, Gilroy and O'Brien.

In police court this morning Malony waived examination, and was bound over to the common pleas court on a charge of larceny from the person, with bail fixed at $500.

INTERESTING CHALK TALK.

The ladies of the non-partisan W. C. T. U. have arranged for a unique entertainment at the First Baptist church next Monday evening. It will be a chalk talk, by Mrs. Bartley, of Chicago. This lady is a talented artist as well as a most interesting speaker, and she illustrates her lecture or "talk" by clever pictures which she draws in crayon with astonishing rapidity while she is speaking.

CAVE-IN ON LAGRANGE STREET.

The recent rains have caused a bad cave-in on Lagrange street at the corner of Peck, where about 15 square feet of pavement has dropped about five feet. It is thought that the sewer is broken somewhere between Sherman and Page streets.

A SPECIAL MESSAGE

From President Harrison is Looked for.

A Belief in New York that Chili Will Not be Allowed to Longer Insult This Country.

New York, Dec. 24.—The Herald this morning says that Secretary Tracy has been in New York for a week, and has been in daily conference with officials of the navy yard and some of the big steamship men with a view of securing options on merchant vessels to be used in case of war.

A naval officer, says the article, is authority for the statement that the United States government will soon take steps to bring the Chilian matter to a crisis.

The Herald's informant said it was understood that President Harrison would in a few days send a special message to congress advising decisive measures in dealing with the Chilian government in case immediate satisfaction was not given for the massacre of the Baltimore's sailors.

The article quotes the official as saying that every available ship of war in the United States navy was now in commission and could readily concentrate at Valparaiso.

To Sail for Chili.

San Francisco, Dec. 24.—The cruiser San Francisco will sail for Chili next Saturday, as sealed orders were received by Admiral Brown yesterday.

Several officers expressed the opinion yesterday that Admiral Brown would not go in command of the San Francisco, as it would be a mistake for the government to return him to a place where the prejudice against him is so bitter.

The steamer Monowai is expected to-day from Honolulu with full details of the movements of the Charleston.

The Bee building contains the finest offices in the city. They are now complete and can be seen by any who are interested in looking them over.

"PROMPT AND PERMANENT!"

THE PECULIAR EFFECTS OF
ST. JACOBS OIL
Are Its Prompt and Permanent Cures.

RHEUMATISM.—Jan. 17, 1883, GEORGE C. OSGOOD & CO., Druggists, Lowell, Mass., wrote: "MR. LEWIS DENNIS, 136 Moody St., desires to say: "ORRIN ROBINSON, a boy of Graniteville, Mass., came to his house in 1881, walking on crutches; his leg was bent at the knee for two months. Mr. Dennis gave him St. Jacobs Oil to rub it. In six days he had no use for his crutches and went home cured without them. Lowell Mass., July 9, '87: "The cripple boy ORRIN ROBINSON, cured by St. Jacobs Oil in 1881, has remained cured. The young man has been and is now at work every day at manual labor." DR. GEORGE C. OSGOOD.

LAMEBACK.—Aberdeen, S. Dak., Sept. 26, 1888: Suffered several years with chronic stitch in the back; was given up by doctors. Two bottles of St. Jacobs Oil cured me.
HERMAN SCHWAYGEL.

NEURALGIA.—Bethany, Mo., Aug. 4, 1888: Suffered for years with neuralgia; but was finally cured by St. Jacobs Oil.
T. B. SHERER.

SPRAINS.—Constantine, Mich., Feb. 16, 1887: "Was troubled 30 years with pains in the back from strain; in bed for weeks at a time; no relief from other remedies. About 8 years ago I bought St. Jacobs Oil and made about 14 applications; have been well and strong ever since. Have done all kinds of work and can lift as much as ever. No return of pain in years." D. M. REARICK.

BRUISES.—760 Dolphin St., Balto., Md., Jan. 18, 1890: I fell down the back stairs of my residence in the darkness, and was bruised badly in my hip and side; suffered severely. St. Jacobs Oil completely cured me.
WM. C. HARDEN,
Member of State Legislature.

It has placed in every locomotive and depot on the road a neat little tin box, containing a piece of linen, a rubber compress, a package of absorbent cotton, six rolls of bandages, and a pyramid containing pins and articles for use in case of accident. There are plain directions on every box how to use the articles before a surgeon arrives.

RATHER FACETIOUS.

The Van Wert News refers to the antics of some of the internal revenue customers in its neighborhood:

"Several of our Ohio City friends have been called to Toledo, and they had company from here and other towns. They have learned something new about the workings of the internal revenue machinery, and the lesson cost each about $50. It is not only necessary to make application for license to sell the ardent, but, different from heretofore, the price must have reached destination before the pump can be worked. It was following the old manner of doing business which necessitated the trip to the north."

PFEFFER FOR LOUISVILLE.

Louisville, Dec. 24.—Fred Pfeffer may play second base for and captain the Louisville team next season after all. President Stuckey has written to Anson offering to trade Browning for him.

It so happens that the transfer would be exactly suitable to both men and both clubs. The Chicago team now has men who can cover second perfectly, but needs another outfielder.

Gildemeester & Kroeger.

The most important piece of news in the piano manufacturing world of late is the resignation of P. J. Gildemeester as manager and partner of Chickering & Sons, New York, and joining all his capital, immense business capacity and energy with Kroeger & Sons.

The new firm will be Gildemeester & Kroeger, and will make the celebrated "Kroeger Piano" a still greater and more formidable competitor for the honors so long held by Chickering and Steinway.

Mr. Gildemeester has, for many years, been the head and front of the Chickering's New York house. He is one of the best known men in the piano trade, and his ability as a business manager is second to none.

This union will enable Henry Kroeger and his sons to devote their whole time to the factory. Mr. Kroeger, sr., is well known as the greatest tone maker in pianos extant. He was for more than twenty years the superintendent of the Steinway factory, and his own pianos of the past twelve years have created a sensation in the piano world.

THE CRESCENT AS AN EMBLEM.

The crescent has been known since time out of memory. In ancient mythology it decorated the foreheads of Diana and of Astarte, the Syrian Venus. In the days of Rome's greatest glory the ladies wore it as an ornament in their hair. Since the foundation of Constantinople (the ancient Byzantium) it has been the emblem of the city, and as such adorns its walls and public buildings, besides being stamped on its coins and postage. The legend which accounts for its universal adoption in Turkey and Constantinople in particular, is as follows: Philip of Macedon laid siege to the city in the year 340 B. C. He chose a night of unusual darkness for the proposed assault, but was foiled by the moon suddenly breaking from behind a cloud. In commemoration of this providential deliverance the crescent was adopted as the symbol of the city. The Mohammedan sultans were slow to assume this emblem until some one mentioned that it was the symbol of increasing greatness, power changing as rapidly as the phases of the moon.—St. Louis Republic.

THE HONEYMOON.

The word "honeymoon" is traceable to Teutonic origin. Among the Teutons was a favorite drink called "metheglin." It was made of mead and honey, and was like that of the European countries. These honeyed drinks were used more especially at marriage festivals, which were kept up among the nobility one lunar month, the festive board being well supplied with "metheglin." "Honahmoon" signified the moon or moonath of the marriage festival. Alaric the Goth celebrated by Southey's poem, died on his wedding night from too free indulgence in the honeyed drink.—New York Press.

DISHWATER CHANGED ONCE A YEAR.

I wonder how many of those Americans who were forced to eat their Thanksgiving dinner at the great restaurants of the Paris boulevards are aware of the fact that the dishwater in which the plates and dishes are washed is only changed and renewed once every 12 months? Yet this is the strict, but scarcely the sober truth. The method is far less unclean than it appears at first sight. For the dishwater, after standing for a week or so, develops strong ammoniacal properties which have the effect of immediately removing all grease from the plates and dishes dipped therein. The grease thus loosened by the ammonia remains floating on the surface, and is skimmed off once a day, placed in a tub, and disposed of by the chef as one of his perquisites. By the end of 12 months the dishwater has become converted into almost pure ammonia. Correspondence New York Tribune.

DON'T FORGET THIS BOY, SANTA.

The Bee has received the following request to Santa Claus from little Clarence Grosswiller, and it is respectfully referred to the old gent:

Dear Santa Claus: I would like a top and a pair of leather mitts, and a lot of marbles. I would like some agates and brownies and a pair of rubber boots, the high ones, so I can go in deep snow and what will keep we warm; and a stamp book what you have to put 5 cents on, and a strap for my books, and a table. They are little ones, and eight bunches of color candles, and a round tin what I can put the candles on when I light them. It will look pretty, won't it? I can put the candles on, and then light them, and I would like a horn like they have in the band—the white ones. That is the kind I like, and a box of candy too, and a rubber ball what I can throw hard and will not break mamma's windows or the big glass in the parlor, and a pair of skates nickel-plated. And I would like a little chair what will fit the little table I wanted in my letter.

I live on Erie street, number 218.

Good-bye for this time.

From your little Clarence Grosswiller.
